N. Viet forces drive wedge between Quang Tri, Hue

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Saturday — Tank-led North Vietnamese troops in a broad attacking front shattered South Vietnam's northernmost defense line Friday and drove a wedge between the northernmost provincial capital of Quang Tri and its nearby combat base this morning, threatening the city itself.

Another new threat arose at Hue, 35 miles to the south, when North Vietnamese troops overran Firebase Bastogne and an outpost guarding the western approaches to the city. Hue, the old imperial capital, apparently is the main objective of a broad northern offensive stepped up by the enemy on Friday.

ASSOCIATED Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from the northern front that barbed wire barricades blocked Highway 1 nine miles south of Quang Tri. He said resupply convoys have been unable to get through to Quang Tri and all helicopter flights have been suspended because of intense anti-aircraft fire.

Associated Press correspondent Lynn C. Newland, also at the front, reported that North Vietnamese troops destroyed a bridge on Highway 1 on the southern edges of the city.

A tank column attacked the bridge and three of the North Vietnamese tanks were reported knocked out.

At least five South Vietnamese ammunition supply trucks trying to reach the defenders were blown up. U.S. advisers said the immediate resupply situation is not critical.

"There is no immediate problem," said one officer, "but we could run short of artillery resupply soon."

FIREBASE Bastogne, 12 miles southwest of Hue, was abandoned overnight after it had been partially overrun. Earlier, Checkmate, an outpost commanding the high ground about a mile southeast of Bastogne, fell.

The positions were the first given up by the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division since the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30.

Hue was partly occupied by the enemy during their 1968 offensive.

Refugees jam highways south

By LYNN C. NEWLAND

ALONG HIGHWAY ONE — Refugees by the thousands — and hundreds of South Vietnamese soldiers — fled Quang Tri as North Vietnamese closed in on the city Friday.

They were joined by others from surrounding villages and some farther south on the road to Hue.

"Many shells hit city," said one woman. "We see VC (Viet Cong) near city. No good."

An old man, blood soaking through the bandage that covered his right hand, nodded impassively. He had been wounded in Quang Tri shelling.

A U.S. officer said North Vietnamese forces had moved in an arc from west, north and east around the city 19 miles below the demilitarized zone, and were harassing refugees and traffic on the highway to the south of it.

Thousands suddenly found themselves refugees for the second time in a month. The woman quoted above was forced from her home in Gio Linh near the DMZ when the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30. She took refuge in Hue, but returned to Quang Tri after it appeared the North Vietnamese drive had been halted.

Now she, with her son, 4, and daughter, 12, had joined the stream of men, women and children on the road south to Hue.

In addition to those walking along the two-lane highway there was a cluster of buses bulging with refugees and belongings. Some rode farm tractors. Others fled in army trucks returning south for rations. One group even rode a fire engine. But most walked.

"We fight at Dong Ha.

Now we rest," one of the soldiers shouted as his truck rolled by. Dong Ha was overrun early Friday.

At one point, about five miles south of Quang Tri, several 13mm artillery shells slammed into the asphalt road, killing 15 civilians and wounding others.

The lucky ones continued walking. A South Vietnamese ammunition convoy moved north, stopping periodically until someone decided it was safe to move on again.

As of Friday Highway 1 had not been cut by the North Vietnamese, but a 10-mile stretch from Quang Tri south was under constant threat of ambush.

"Refugees started coming down that road last night, I'll tell you that," said Maj. Andy Debona, a Marine from Ebensburg, Pa. "When the buses and the scooters stop running the people started walking."

"One 130 round hit a group of them and there were bodies all over the road. I can't figure out why they'd want to hit the refugees."

"That 130 is a tough weapon, though, I'll tell you that. It provides zero chuckles. Zero laughs."

Controls cut '72 pay hikes 25%

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's wage controls cut average wage increases in the first quarter of 1972 by more than 25 per cent over the first quarter of last year, the Labor Department said Friday.

"The average first-year change dropped to 8.4 per cent for all industries from 11.7 per cent in 1971," said the report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics on contracts covering 362,000 workers.

It said most workers affected were in railroad and aerospace industries.

"Manufacturing settlements averaged 7.3 per cent compared with 10.8 per cent for the previous year," a cut of more than 30 per cent, the report added.

"Non-manufacturing increases averaged 9.4 per cent compared with 12.7 per cent in 1971," a decline of 26 per cent, it said.

Construction wage increases, controlled by Nixon's separate Construction Industry Stabilization Committee, were the only ones to exceed last year's first quarter with a rise of 13 per cent compared with 11.8 per cent in 1971, a gain of a little less than 20 per cent.

The report said the higher construction wage gains approved by the Stabilization Committee were all negotiated before Nov. 14. The committee granted higher increases for such contracts than those negotiated after the wage-price freeze expired and was replaced by Phase 2 controls.

Contracts covered in the report involved 32,000 construction workers, it said.

The bureau said its report did not include wage contracts covering an additional 375,000 workers in various industries that had not yet been approved by either Nixon's Pay Board or Construction Industry Stabilization Committee.

The figures cover only first year increases in negotiated contracts approved by the federal control groups.

Price panel rescinds food can hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission Friday rescinded two price increases for makers of food cans and ordered a widespread review of inflationary factors in the industry.

It was the first time the panel had suspended an increase that it had granted earlier.

A price commission spokesman said indications surfaced at hearings on food costs two weeks ago that the price of cans could have a significant effect on prices.

"We think the rising costs in cans have a high potential, consumer impact," the spokesman said.

"The increases in canned processed foods undoubtedly brought about some of the increased food prices about which so many of us have been concerned."

Specifically, the commission suspended increases of 4.3 per cent which it had granted to the American Can Co. and 4.2 per cent granted previously to Continental Can.

The committee said it is also delaying action on National Can Co.'s request for a 4.27 per cent price increase.

However, it left standing a 2.6 per cent increase that it had granted last December to all three can companies to cover increases in the price of steel.

Also Friday, the Price Commission said it is still waiting to receive required reports from 641 of America's largest business firms.

Furthermore, it said another 117 have filed reports that were sent back because they were incorrectly filled out.

Both groups face possible penalties of up to $2,500 in civil fines or $5,000 in criminal fines if they fail to meet the deadline for filing.

Because these fines are small change to big corporations, the commission reportedly will consider next week possible stiffer penalties for late filing. One possibility would be a freeze on all prices of late-filing firms.

U.S. willing to meet secretly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Friday the American delegation to the Paris peace talks would be willing to hold private talks with the North Vietnamese on ending the Southeast Asian war.

Spokesman Charles W. Bray said the United States will be willing to meet with Hanoi's top negotiator Le Duc Tho "in any useful channel private or public."

Le Duc Tho is a high member of Hanoi's ruling circle and has been North Vietnam's main negotiator in the previous secret peace talks.

LE DUC THO is reported to have left Hanoi for Peking before his expected arrival in Paris next week.

The public Paris peace talks resumed Thursday after a month's suspension with the U.S. chief delegate William Porter asking the North Vietnamese to start immediate discussions on ending their country's invasion of the South.

The Americans then asked that the talks be resumed or indicated they would be willing for another round of talks next Thursday.

Bray refused to comment in any way on published accounts that the U.S. is willing to avoid bombing the Hanoi-Haiphong area of North Vietnam to test the other side's intent in any secret peace talks.

Suspect identified by rape victims

Some of the 15 victims of a central Long Beach rape spree in the past six weeks identified a 21-year-old welder as their attacker, police said Friday.

Detective Sgt. Vernon J. Racobs said after a police line-up Friday that complaints will be sought Monday from the district attorney's office against the suspect, Terry M. George, of 143 W. 53rd St.

"Positive identifications were obtained," the detective said. "But I don't think we should go into how many."

Racobs and Detective Robert J. Hohl, both of the felony morals detail, arrested George Thursday afternoon at his job.

George, five feet, nine inches tall, about 150 pounds and with a two-inch Afro haircut, closely matches descriptions of the rapist, Racobs said.

His wife, who lives with their daughter in Columbus, Ohio, is suing for di-voice, police said. George's name first turned up on several field interview cards filed by police who checked persons acting suspiciously in the areas of the rapes.

When he was questioned, Racobs said, George's accounts of his whereabouts at the times of some of the rapes were inconsistent. A search of George's apartment, Racobs said, yielded some items that appeared to have been stolen from the homes of the victims.

The rapist operated in an area bounded by Hill Street, Fourth Street, Dawson Avenue and Raymond Avenue.

Two 11-year-old girls, who were beaten as well as raped, were among his victims.

Astronauts fly home to Space Center today

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (AP) — The Apollo 16 astronauts cruised north toward Hawaii Friday on the first leg of the trip home from their South Pacific splashdown. Doctors said the three were in excellent health.

Astronauts John W. Young, Thomas K. Mattingly II and Charles M. Duke Jr. went through a detailed medical examination aboard this prime recovery ship and doctors said they were in better condition in measurements than previous Apollo crews.

A doctor at the Manned Spacecraft Center announced the astronauts were exposed to radiation from the first solar flare ever to occur during a manned moon mission.

But, said Dr. Charles A. Berry, director of life sciences for the space agency, the solar flare was very small.

The spacemen were guests of honor at a splashdown dinner aboard ship Thursday night, but couldn't eat any of the steak and lobster main course because they are still on a special high-potassium diet, designed to regulate their heartbeats.

Apollo 16 splashed down about 1,150 miles south of Hawaii Thursday and the astronauts will remain aboard this aircraft carrier until early this morning. Then they'll be flown to Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii, where they'll transfer to a C141 jet transport for a non-stop flight to Ellington Air Force Base near the Manned Spacecraft Center, home of the astronauts.

Arrival at Ellington, near Houston, Tex., is scheduled for 6:45 p.m. PST today.

The 245 pounds of moon rocks and the miles of film taken during the 21-day moon mission also will be flown to Ellington today.

Speed of the carrier was slowed slightly Thursday to permit doctors to conduct delicate medical examinations of the spacemen. A loss of air conditioning in the medical area reduced the value of some tests, Berry reported.

Berry, at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, announced Friday morning that the tests showed them in "much better shape than the Apollo 15 crew."

The physician said each of the astronauts had lost some weight, but only about what was expected. Young lost 7½ pounds, Mattingly 6½ and Duke 5½.

He said, however, blood tests showed the astronauts had a normal distribution of white blood cells, "which has not been seen before."

Previous moon-mission crews had returned with an elevated white cell count.

NATIONAL

GOP bonus system unconstitutional

WASHINGTON — A federal judge Friday declared unconstitutional the "bonus system" used by the Republican Party to choose part of its delegates to national conventions. The ruling by U.S. District Court Judge William Jones does not affect the composition of the 1972 convention. But he ordered the party to develop a new system for delegate selection for the 1976 convention, saying the system unfairly discriminates against the most populous states. Jones ruled on a suit brought last November by the Ripon Society, an organization of liberal Republicans, challenging the party's system of picking delegates.

Conjugal visits for women

PARCHMAN, Miss. — Parchman prison farm officials announced plans Friday to allow conjugal visits for married women prisoners at the state penitentiary. "We are establishing conjugal visits for our married women inmates because we are convinced it is a vital step toward fulfilling our moral obligation to attempt to preserve the marriages of our inmates," said Supt. John Collier. Parchman already has instituted conjugal visits for male inmates. This is the first such program for females in the country.

Critic puts hold on Kleindienst

WASHINGTON — The Senate Democratic leadership put a "hold" Friday on Richard Kleindienst's nomination to be attorney general and one of his harshest critics promised a full airing of charges of improper political influence in the Justice Department. The delay was requested by one of the four Democratic members of the Senate Judiciary Committee who voted Thursday against Kleindienst's approval. Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., did not identify who made the "hold" request. But Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., one of the four dissenters, called a news conference to announce he intended to arrange a "full airing" of the committee's two-month investigation.

Top arrest near in union murder

PITTSBURGH — Reliable sources said Friday they expect that a seventh person will be arrested soon in the slaying of United Mine Workers insurgent Joseph Yablonski, his wife and daughter. "We still have not reached those at the top who ordered and paid for these killings," said one official. "But we are on the verge of moving another step closer to the top and our momentum is building. We are looking for the breakthrough soon."

'Happy hooker' heads home

Combined News Services

Manhattan's self-described "happy hooker" flew home to her native Holland Friday, brimming with faith, hope and chastity.

"I've made more money vertically in the last two months than I did the entire time horizontally," volunteered Xaviera Hollander, who, in addition to writing her memoirs, has lectured to college students.

Miss Hollander, 28, was accompanied to Kennedy Airport by her beagle, Bagel, and Yvonne Dunleavy, editor of Coronet magazine and ghost writer for her book "The Happy Hooker." She said there is a sequel in the works, "Letters to the Happy Hooker."

Her appearance before the so-called Knapp Commission during an investigation into police graft led to Miss Hollander's downfall. She was ordered deported because of her occupation — madam of a high class East Side brothel. She chose instead to leave voluntarily.

Julie's trip

Julie Eisenhower has five public appearances on her schedule next week. The President's daughter will attend the 60th anniversary celebration of the Girl Scouts of Northern Florida in Jacksonville Sunday. Julie also is attending the jamboree in the Jacksonville Coliseum as a former Girl Scout herself.

On Tuesday she will fly to San Francisco to be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the 47th National Convention of the American National Red Cross. She will remain in California overnight and on Wednesday will visit the Fremont Elementary School in Santa Ana to discuss the administration's bi-lingual education program. Afterwards she will fly to Los Angeles where she will be guest of honor Wednesday evening at the 26th annual National Leadership Conference of the Distributive Education Clubs of America. She will speak at the club's dinner in the Convention Center.

Friday morning Julie will be in Detroit to address the 1972 convention and clinical sessions of the American Nurses Association.

Jackson march

Jazzmen who marched for years with Henry "Pickle" Jackson in New Orleans' French Quarter funeral processions, marched for him Friday. Jackson died Tuesday at 62. A wake at a funeral home was followed by a slow, sad walk to the cemetery and a jubilant march back to the quarter. Jackson played with the bands of Chuck Willis, Edgar Blanchard and Thomas Jefferson and was last affiliated with the Albert "Papa" French band. He was also a member of the Eureka Brass Band.

Irish guerrillas' bombs wound 18

BELFAST, — Despite government concessions, guerrillas bombed shopping centers in two Northern Ireland cities on Friday. Eighteen persons were wounded. A bomb in a stolen panel truck wrecked a paint store on Queen Street near Belfast's city center, injuring seven policemen and two civilians.

INTERNATIONAL

Police had cleared nearby shops and offices immediately after spotting the truck in an area where parking is banned. The bomb blew up seven minutes later. In Newly, close to the border with the Irish Republic, a bomb parked in a car outside a Kildare Street tavern damaged 30 buildings and wrecked eight vehicles. One policeman and eight civilians were injured.

Egypt seeks more Soviet aid

CAIRO — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat met Friday in Moscow with Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin to hammer out Middle East strategy that Arab sources said included more Soviet military aid. The sources said Sadat conferred for six hours with the Soviet leaders. The sources said Sadat was seeking more military aid, including offensive weapons, to back up his new pledge to recapture Israeli-occupied territory before next April.

Setback for Willy Brandt

BONN — Chancellor Willy Brandt suffered a major setback Friday in a parliamentary test vote that could imperil his policy of reconciliation with Communist East Europe. Only a new election or opposition help seemed likely to fulfill Brandt's hope of winning ratification of his nonaggression treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland. Deadlocked 247-247 in a vote on Brandt's budget, the Bundestag was forced to adjourn. It awaited the outcome of talks between Brandt and Rainer Barzel, the Christian Democrat leader whose opposition attacks have plunged the government deep into crisis.

Okinawa Day clash fatal to 1

OSAKA — Rival factions of leftist student groups clashed Friday during an Okinawa Day demonstration and one student was killed. Twenty-seven demonstrators were arrested, police said. Okinawa Day was first observed in 1952 as a protest against U.S. military presence on Okinawa. The island, under U.S. rule since the end of World War II in 1945 is scheduled to return to Japan May 15.

Flag saver

Bill Pierson, a football star at San Diego State College when he won national attention by standing off students trying to lower the U.S. flag, was cleared by a jury Friday in a $35,000 civil suit against him. The suit was filed by David Alan Dean, also a student when he claimed Pierson beat and kicked him on campus a day after the flag incident May 11, 1970. After a week of testimony, the jury ruled 9-3 for Pierson with the three women jurors supporting Dean.

Pierson was honored by the Freedoms Foundation because of his efforts to prevent putting the flag at half staff in memory of students killed in the anti-war disturbance at Kent State University in Ohio.

Leader exiled

Col. Benjamin Mejia, leader of the unsuccessful coup attempt against President Fidel Sanchez Hernandez on March 25, was exiled with three other men to Argentina Friday night. El Salvador has remained under martial law since the rebellion which cost an estimated 150 lives and left over 200 wounded.

C. B. CHRISTENSEN

Farm boss

Charles Brunel Christensen, a nationally known cattleman from Modoc County, was named Friday by Gov. Reagan as director of the state Department of Agriculture. Christensen, 49, a member of the state Board of Agriculture, succeeds the late Jerry Felder who was killed March 22 in a plane crash.

Hoffa appeal

Former Teamsters president James Hoffa Friday in Cincinnati asked the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals to set aside his conviction and sentence for jury tampering on grounds the chief government witness committed perjury. Hoffa was convicted in March, 1964, and began serving his sentence in Lewisburg Federal Prison in March, 1967. President Nixon commuted Hoffa's sentence on Dec. 22, 1971, and ordered that he be paroled.

This is the fifth time Hoffa has appealed the conviction, which has been upheld in each instance. In his latest appeal Hoffa said chief government witness Edward Partin committed perjury.

DIAL 432-3451

GETS THINGS DONE

ACTION LINE is your service, solving your problems, getting your answers, cutting red tape and standing up for your rights. To get action, write ACTION LINE, Box 230, Long Beach, Calif. 90801, or dial 432-3451 between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Friday. Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness. Please, do not send original documents you wish returned.

Deduction

My husband worked for the Los Angeles Police Department for 2½ years. When he left there in 1969, pension funds that had been regularly deducted from his pay weren't returned to him. He has since learned that state and federal employees receive the amount they have paid into their pension programs when they leave their jobs. Is it legal for the city to keep their former employees' pension funds? Mrs. W. D. S., Lakewood.

It is. The rules on refunds on pensions vary with each pension plan. In Los Angeles, policemen and firemen have never had their pension contributions refunded, according to M. Lewis Thompson, manager-secretary of the Department of Pensions for Los Angeles. This policy became law in 1967 when it was approved by the city's voters. Several suits have challenged the law, but none successfully, Thompson said. "This no refund policy acts as an incentive to keep down employee turnover."

High chair

I have looked all over for an oversized rocking chair or giant straight chair. My son needs it for his school play. Can ACTION LINE help? B. W., Cerritos.

ACTION LINE was unable to find a giant rocking chair, but you can rent an 8 foot tall high chair from Roschu, a theatrical props supply house at 6514 Santa Monica Blvd. in Hollywood. Peter Stephenson of Roschu told ACTION LINE that "the base rate for a prop of this type is $35 plus tax for a four-day rental."

Exam by computer

I read an article about the new health detection system known as Automated Multiphasic Health Testing (AMHT), and would like to know if there are any AMHT centers around here. J. B., Compton.

ACTION LINE learned of three multiphasic testing centers in Los Angeles and one in Orange County. Only one is completely automated. The others lack the computers that process test data rapidly. The center with Local 770 of the Retail Clerks Union, which operates as a fringe benefit for its members, has access to computers. The other nonautomated centers are with the Kaiser Foundation Hospital, the Department of Defense and at the Orange County Medical Center in Orange. The Department of Defense's center is for its employees and families only. Persons to be tested at the Orange County Medical Center must be outpatients referred there by the center's own physicians. Several other large employers have arranged to have Health Screening Centers, Inc., a mobile screening firm from Denver, Colo., test their employees using the system. AMHT is designed as a preventive medicine aid to help physicians discover hidden diseases in persons who appear to be healthy. It reduces the cost and time required for the battery of tests taken in a complete physical examination.

Exercised

Last April I gave a salesman for E-Z Trim Exerciser, 2841 W. Lincoln Ave., Anaheim, $45 toward one of their exercise machines. When I finally went to pick it up some months later, the office was closed. I tried to call their other six stores in Orange and Los Angeles Counties, but all the phones were disconnected. Can ACTION LINE help me get my exerciser or a refund? Mrs. V. G., Orange.

No. Apparently the E-Z Trim Exerciser company has gone out of business and ACTION LINE was unable to locate anyone associated with the firm. A spokesman for the Orange County Better Business Bureau told ACTION LINE that E-Z Trim never had answered any of the BBB's requests for information about their operation and an attorney with the California State Attorney General's office in Los Angeles said that "although we have nothing on this particular company, we are aware that most of these exercise machine firms have folded. I doubt that she'll have much luck tracking them down." The Orange County Sheriff's Department bureau detail and the Orange County Consumer Protection Agency could give no information on what might have become of the E-Z Trim people.

Blue and Gray music

I have friends in Scotland who would like to have a recording of American Civil War songs. I have not had any luck finding such a collection. Can ACTION LINE help? J. R. B., Long Beach.

The only collection of Civil War music ACTION LINE could find is "Songs of North and South, 1861-1865" by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir. It is available at Morrey's Music Store, 342 Pine Ave., for $4.95 and includes such selections as "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching", "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" and "Tenting on the Old Campground."

HOW TO USE ACTION LINE

When calling or writing with a problem or question, give your name, address and telephone number—not for publication, as only readers' initials are used in the column—but to help ACTION LINE help you. Include pertinent information but please don't send original documents or pictures that you want returned.

The volume of mail makes it impossible to answer or acknowledge every question. Each question, however, is carefully read and considered. Because of the delay in transcribing telephone messages recorded on ACTION LINE's special number, 432-3451, mail requests often receive prompter attention than phone calls.

Persons seeking information contained in past ACTION LINE items may visit the newspapers' library, Room 208, The Independent, Press-Telegram Building, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., weekdays for help. Phone calls to ACTION LINE through the regular Independent, Press-Telegram switchboard will not be put through.

Cop-killing haunted man

An elderly transient who said the crime had "haunted" him for 45 years was found guilty Friday of the murder of a Los Angeles police officer in 1927.

A Superior Court jury convicted Matthew Kilgariff, 67, of the slaying of Officer Parley Bennett, then 32, on a Los Angeles street after which he fled on a street car.

Holdup man waits in line to rob bank

A bandit who waited in line took an estimated $500 from the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Long Beach, 302 Pine Ave., Friday afternoon after passing a demand note to a teller, police said.

Mary Lynne Harper, 23, told officers the suspect approached her counter several times, waiting until she served customers.

Finally he came to the window and handed her a note which read:

"This is a stickup. Quick! Give me all your money."

The teller said she put a number of bills on the counter. The bandit, described as a Latin with a black moustache, scooped the cash and left the bank hurriedly, police said.

Time change will make Sunday's paper hour late

If you stay up until 2 a.m. Sunday to officially change your clocks to 3 a.m., chances are (yawn) it isn't going to make too much difference what time your morning paper is delivered.

You'll still be asleep. However, if you're one of those crafty early-to-bedders who unofficially makes the Daylight Saving Time switch before retiring tonight, we may be a little late with your Sunday paper.

Our standard operation will not yet have caught up with the time change.

Next October, when there's a reverse time change, we'll make it up to you by delivering your paper an hour earlier.

Court OKs airport nuisance suit

SAN FRANCISCO (U) — Property owners aggrieved by noise, fumes and vibrations generated by a city-owned airport may sue for damages on the ground of public nuisance, the California Supreme Court ruled Friday.

A 5-2 decision held that the state Legislature had not intended to bar such suits when it approved new statutes in 1963 governing the right to sue governmental entities.

The decision came in a class action suit initiated by 700 persons suing the city of Santa Monica for property and personal injury damages resulting from vibrations, fumes and noise caused by jet aircraft at the city-operated airport.

The trial court dismissed the action in which damages were claimed on grounds of nuisance, negligence, and zoning violation.

The Supreme Court reversed the ruling and held that the case should be tried on the basis that the airport created a nuisance.

The Supreme Court also ordered that the 37 appealing plaintiffs should be permitted to show negligence and zoning violations.

Justice Stanley Mosk said that the issues involved a cloudy legal area.

"By treading in the murky waters of governmental tort immunity, the parties immerse us once again in the aspect of the law described a half century ago as 'one of the mysteries of legal evolution,'" Mosk said.

He said that the state Supreme Court in two 1961 decisions struck down the previous common law rule of sovereign immunity from damage claims.

The California Law Revision Commission thereafter drafted the California Tort Claims Act, approved almost without change in 1963.

A 1969 revision proposed by the commission was approved by the Legislature but the legislators dropped the provision barring nuisance recovery from governmental agencies.

"In view of the pervasive influence the commission has enjoyed in the field of governmental immunity... We must conclude that the legislature... decided to reject the commission's proposal to bar suits against public entities for public nuisance," Mosk said.

"Consequently, it is manifest that the Legislature intended to allow such causes of action..."

"This conclusion is further supported by the profound interest the 1970 Legislature demonstrated in the eradication of the evils of various forms of pollution, with particular emphasis on noise pollution," Mosk wrote.

"Since it is well documented that a nuisance theory provides an effective means for redress in a wide range of actions resulting from pollution... it appears that... the Legislature intended to preserve this additional weapon in the arsenal available to combat grievous injury to the environment," he said.

Ex-L.A. chief admits purchases

Kristovich tied to auto deal

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

Former County Chief Administrative Officer Lindon Hollinger admitted Thursday that he bought a car and some furnishings from estates in the care of ousted Public Administrator Baldo Kristovich.

Hollinger, the first of several key county executives expected to testify at Kristovich's trial, was called unexpectedly because he is scheduled to leave the country, prosecutors said.

Hollinger, the top executive officer for the county for 13 years, repeatedly said he did not buy the car himself but allowed his son, Norman, to do so. He said, however, he made the initial contact, test drive the car, then sent his son's check on to Kristovich.

"I contacted Mr. Kristovich because my son wanted a car. I heard the car was available from Mr. Nesvig (Gordon Nesvig, county personnel officer). I called Mr. Kristovich and asked him if the $3,200 price was the same to everyone. I got that price from Mr. Nesvig," Hollinger testified.

Obviously uneasy on the witness stand, Hollinger said he went to look at the car then drove it to Hawthorne where his son was working. He said the auto was in excellent condition and informed Kristovich that his son would take it. Subsequently, he said, he forwarded his son's check to Kristovich.

Hollinger also admitted that several years earlier he bought a couch, several rugs, and other furnishings for his daughter, Jean Chapman. He said, however, that he was not aware of policies in the public administrator's office and did not know there was a restriction on test driving autos or bidding on furnishings.

Kristovich, 56, on trial in Los Angeles Superior Court, is accused of 20 criminal counts connected with mismanagement of estates in his care. Also on trial is Kristovich's nephew Joseph L. Vicelja, charged with four counts of conspiracy, conflict of interest and embezzlement.

Mayor's enchiladas spiked in blackmail try, jury says

The mayor of Irwindale was the target of a blackmail scheme in which the plotters drugged his drinks, spiked his enchiladas and took pictures of him with a naked woman, a county grand jury charged Friday.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas King Elden said the alleged plot against Mayor Richard Diaz, 34, "was done to pressure Diaz into backing a move to get legalized gambling into Irwindale."

The grand jury returned indictments charging five persons with conspiracy to commit criminal libel, extortion, administration of a restricted dangerous drug, administration of chloroform with intent to assist in the commission of a felony, false imprisonment and oral copulation.

Among those indicted was Richard Breceda, a city councilman of Irwindale, which has a population of slightly less than 1,000.

Also indicted were Joseph Tintary, 52, and his brother, Perlee, 48, operators of the Tintary Realty Co. of Irwindale; Ronald Lee Ballard, 31, of Covina, son-in-law of Joseph Tintary, and Diane Nixon, 24.

The conspiracy was alleged to have been carried out between July 1, 1971, and April 24, 1972.

It was alleged that Diaz was chloroformed while sleeping and that pictures then were taken of him with a nude woman.

At a brief hearing to set bail for the Tintary brothers and Breceda, prosecutor Elden said Perlee Tintary "on occasion recommended putting the victim in this case in a pine box in the desert."

"Diaz is to be commended for his courage in helping us obtain this indictment," said Dist. Atty. Joseph B. Busch. "A lesser man might have taken the easy way out."

Diaz said: "Sure, there are some embarrassing aspects about this matter but I felt I had to bring it to the district attorney's office in the best interests of my city."

Diaz operates the Irwindale Raceway and a car leasing firm, and has been a member of the City Council for nine of the last 11 years.

Ex-deputy tells of abuses, bias by L.A. Sheriff Dept.

A former deputy sheriff told an Assembly committee Friday that rights of suspects routinely are abused in the Mexican-American barrio of East Los Angeles while suspects in the wealthy Malibu area get preferential treatment.

Preston Guillory, who left the sheriff's department in 1969 after serving for three years, testified in Los Angeles before the Assembly Select Committee on the Administration of Justice which is holding hearings on relations between minorities and law enforcement officers.

Guillory said he was assigned to the East Los Angeles substation for a year and spent seven months at Malibu on the west side of the county.

In East Los Angeles, he said, "It was my feeling that probably 90 per cent of the arrests were illegal and unconstitutional under the Miranda decision on search and seizure."

Among Guillory's allegations: —He was admonished for warning a young man for drinking on the beach at Malibu after it was learned he was the son of an unidentified state assemblyman.

—He was instructed once to falsify arrests records of a drunken driving suspect who was a bartender at an establishment frequented by a sheriff's captain.

—Officers were instructed to cite vehicles in a 1968 motorcade of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy through East Los Angeles because it was felt he was "not very pro police."

Busing foe believes Nixon is on her side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Irene McCabe, the busing mother from Pontiac, Mich., said Friday she got the impression at a White House conference that President Nixon would immediately throw his full support behind a constitutional amendment to ban busing if his proposed legislative substitute is declared unconstitutional.

Mrs. McCabe, a 37-year-old mother of three who walked 620 miles from her home in Pontiac to lobby in behalf of the amendment approach, conferred for an hour and 10 minutes with John Ehrlichman, the President's chief domestic affairs adviser.

"If the legislation is found unconstitutional I feel that the President would put his influence immediately behind the amendment," Mrs. McCabe told newsmen after the meeting. "This was my impression."

Complaining that a constitutional amendment would take too long for ratification, the President last month proposed a moratorium on new court busing orders until mid-1973 and asked Congress to legislate desegregation remedies in the form of court guidelines that would prescribe busing only as a last resort.

Both the proposed constitutional amendment and Nixon's own alternatives have become mired in controversy in Congress.

Mrs. McCabe said she believes the legislation has a better chance of approval than an amendment because of opposition to the latter in the Senate. Hope for the amendment lies in "restructuring the Senate" in the November elections, she said.

"Unfortunately, there are many in the Senate who do not respond to the President's influence," she said.

Mrs. McCabe acknowledged she urged Ehrlichman to try to persuade the President to throw his support immediately behind an amendment. Asked if she thought she was successful, she replied, "I think so."

Senate again to get antibusing bill

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (UPI)—Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said Friday he will re-introduce a bill, narrowly defeated in the Senate last month, that would bar courts from ordering busing as a means of desegregating public schools.

In remarks prepared for a Republican Party dinner, Griffin said, "sentiment has shifted enough in the Senate so that another vote will produce a different result."

His bill to bar federal courts from ordering school busing was passed 43 to 40 on Feb. 29, when, through parliamentary maneuvering, he brought it to a vote suddenly, surprising opponents.

Later in the week, however, the Democratic leadership marshalled the absent senators, including most of the presidential candidates back to the Senate and a vote to reconsider the measure — in effect, killing it — was passed, 48 to 47.

Whole court to hear Tex. bus case

NEW ORLEANS, La. (U)—The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals moved Friday to have the entire 15-member court decide the controversial Austin, Tex., school integration case, in which President Nixon intervened because of the busing issue.

The court decided to let the whole court consider the complicated case without further oral arguments. The case had been assigned to a three-judge panel.

Griffin told the Macomb County dinner Friday, that he definitely will reintroduce the bill and "if necessary, I will take the extraordinary step of re-ordering my amendment as a rider on some other bill going through the Senate."

Senators kill Nixon plan

New aid reform controversy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee killed President Nixon's welfare bill Friday and adopted one which would create jobs and require employable welfare recipients to go to work or lose all federal benefits for themselves or their families.

As many as 29 million adults and children — roughly one seventh of the U.S. population — would draw from the U.S. Treasury under the committee's multibillion-dollar program. They would get welfare payments, "work bonus" cash payments or wage subsidies.

Two Cabinet members, in the strongest terms, denounced the committee program as "a $9-billion step backward — backward into the leaf-raking schemes of the 1930s."

On behalf of the administration, Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson and Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare vowed a fight on the Senate floor to revive Nixon's battered "family assistance plan," first proposed in 1969.

But the White House was embarrassed when a Republican on the conservative-dominated committee stepped forward to defend Nixon's bill.

Nonetheless, Richardson

said a 51-vote majority exists in the Senate to salvage Nixon's most important domestic program. But he could not name a Republican senator who would lead the battle on behalf of the President.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., committee chairman and author of the committee bill, conceded that up to 1.2 million welfare recipients — mostly mothers — could be forced into such "make-work" jobs as cleaning streets or beautifying parks. He said "make work" is better than paying people who refuse to work.

If the mother refused to take a job, Long said, federal welfare benefits would be denied both her and her children but states could choose to continue aid from their own funds. Under Nixon's bill, the family would be penalized only by the loss of the mother's payment.

The Senate committee killed Nixon's bill on a 10-4 vote after two years of consideration.

$17.73-billion welfare bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's total federal, state and local welfare bill soared to a record $17.73 billion in 1971, the Health, Education and Welfare Department said Friday.

That figure included all the money spent by federal, state and local governments for Medicaid, aid to needy families, the aged, blind and disabled, and local relief. It was $3.29-billion higher than the 1970 spending total.

THE FEDERAL share of the 1971 welfare bill was $9.13 billion.

The HEW annual figures showed that 22 states reported that the number of persons receiving welfare increased between 10 and 20 per cent in 1971, and in 14 states, the number rose by 20 per cent or more.

Annual welfare reports from HEW normally are issued on a fiscal rather than a calendar-year basis, and the department six months ago reported the biggest annual welfare cost increase in history. A government spokesman said there was no significance to the unusual issuing of a calendar-year report.

But HEW's administrator of social and rehabilita-

State aid rolls increase

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California welfare rolls increased during March for the second month in a row, but state officials insisted Friday they will start shrinking soon.

During March, the caseload total reached 2,160,299, Robert B. Carleson, state welfare director, said. That is an increase of 23,600 over February.

Carleson said nearly all the increase was in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Although there was an increase of 17,000 recipients in February, Carleson said the March figure was lower than for March 1971 and said he was confident new regulations taking effect in June would further reduce the caseload.

The total for March 1971 was 2,293,909.

"A comparison with the projections of where our caseload would have been without welfare reform shows that in March we had 563,300 fewer persons on the rolls than we would have had without welfare reform," Carleson said.

WAR IN VIETNAM

Vietnamese defenses Friday and drove close to Quang Tri.

The enemy quickly conquered Dong Ha, 11 miles south of the demilitarized zone and eastern anchor of the defense line.

The North Vietnamese then drove to within sight of Quang Tri and by nightfall had closed in on three sides of the provincial capital 19 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese command acknowledged Friday that government militiamen in the Mekong Delta have gone over to the Communist side. The command called the action "an enemy attack with the support of PDSF (Peoples Self-Defense Forces militia) traitors."

There have been reports of widespread defections among PDSF's both in the delta and in the central coast area, particularly Binh Dinh Province, but the government had not acknowledged officially that they were occurring.

tarized zone dividing the two Vietnams. Heavy fighting continued on the outskirts of the city today.

But North Vietnamese troops made new tank thrusts toward the city and government defenders reported knocking out 11 more tanks for a two-day total of 22 claimed destroyed. The South Vietnamese also claimed killing 140 enemy troops. South Vietnamese losses were reported as eight men killed and 29 wounded.

OTHER tanks were sighted along the Saigon-to-Phnom Penh highway near the South Vietnam-Cambodian border, about 40 miles northwest of Saigon. South Vietnamese bomber pilots reported they destroyed four of the tanks.

Allied sources in Hue said North Vietnamese troops stormed Bastogne, triggering bunker-to-bunker fighting before the base fell.

The outpost manned by troops of South Vietnam's 1st Division blocked the only access to Hue by road from the west. The assault appeared to be an attempt to open the highway, called Route 547, so tanks and guns can move up for attacks against Hue.

"The enemy's objective is to capture Hue," Brig. Gen. Thomas W. Bowen, senior U.S. adviser to the South Vietnamese, said in Hue. "He's got people west of here and they're coming down from the north."

Saigon forces were outnumbered 3 to 1 in the fighting around Quang Tri, Bowen told Jensen.

"The situation is bad," said a U.S. intelligence officer at Hue.

Marines deny beatings led recruit to go AWOL, die

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Marine recruit who made a fatal decision to leave boot camp and stow away in the wheel well of a New York-bound jetliner had been hit up to 10 times by a drill instructor but left for other reasons, the Marine Corps said Friday.

"The evidence shows no direct connection between the alleged maltreatment and Gribowskas' absconding himself on 11-12 April," the Marine Corps said after conducting an investigation. "Rather, it indicates that his decision to leave was based on his difficulty in adapting to the training regimen."

Pvt. John J. Gribowskas, 18, of Warren, Mich., was found in a wheelwell of an American Airlines jet when it landed at Kennedy International Airport in New York April 13. He had frozen to death in subzero temperatures as the plane cruised at an altitude of 37,000 feet.

The recruit's mother, Ann Gribowskas, said her son wrote April 1 to tell her, "I got beat by the drill instructor for smoking, but don't worry, he only hit me about 10 times. Everything is A-OK now, so I don't want you to worry."

The Marine Corps report confirmed that Gribowskas was hit up to 10 times on or about March 31 by Sgt. R. T. Grabel, a drill instructor at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot's receiving barracks, where new Marines spend their first five days and are formed into platoons. It said Gribowskas had been caught smoking at an unauthorized time.

As a result of the investigation, a base spokesman said, Grabel was relieved as a drill instructor, reduced in rank to corporal and fined $200.

However, the Marine Corps said it was not this incident which led the teen-ager to leave boot camp. He stowed aboard a plane at International Airport next to the base.

"Pvt. Gribowskas' record reveals that he was having difficulty adapting to the firm discipline which marks the recruit training environment," the service said in a news release. "Testimony of his squad mates corroborates this." It said other members of his platoon recalled Gribowskas openly discussing leaving without authorization.

S. Vietnam won't fall. (will it?)

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Secretary of the Army Robert H. Froehke said Friday, "I don't think South Vietnam will fall" under the North Vietnamese invasion impact.

"But we can't guarantee it," Froehke told the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco.

The Army secretary responded to a question asking what would result if the South Vietnamese were defeated.

"I must be careful answering this, because I'm not conceding a North Vietnam victory," Froehke said.

"I don't think it will happen."

"BUT if South Vietnam does fall, there will be effects on our diplomacy around the world."

"But the record will show that we have acted responsibly and that we gave the South Vietnamese all the support the American public would allow."

Froehke said he was convinced the North Vietnamese could not maintain hostilities at the scale they have attempted and on all the fronts they have attacked.

He said North Vietnam's invasion across the Demilitarized Zone had inflicted hardship and loss on South Vietnam.

"But South Vietnam has not lost the battle. It has lost some skirmishes. This is a baptism of fire for South Vietnam's army."

Stanford demonstration 250 protest at Chinese match

STANFORD (UPI) — Some 250 antiwar protesters demonstrated Friday at an exhibition match by China's championship table tennis team at the Maples Pavilion at Stanford University.

The demonstrators sat in one section of the modern gymnasium, held up placards, refused to stand during the playing of the national anthem and jeered Stanford President Richard Lyman during his welcoming address.

An estimated 7,500 spectators crowded into the 8,000-capacity pavilion for the afternoon matches.

They cheered wildly at the brilliant rallies staged by the 34-member team in both individual and doubles matches.

Lyman, whose speech was interrupted several times by the antiwar demonstrators, said in opening remarks that Stanford "looks forward" to such exchanges between the United States and Red China.

"And, of course, we hope that U.S. students will be able to study in China and learn from you," he added.

Among the signs held by the demonstrators were ones which read: "Down with U.S. Imperialism," "Victory to the NLF," and "Power to the People."

A lone sign reading "Defect and Be Free" was seen in the audience.

In Philadelphia, police served an injunction on antiwar protesters Friday and tore down barricades they had thrown up at the University of Pennsylvania's administration building.

In Chicopee, Mass., 24 persons demonstrating against the war in Southeast Asia were arrested at the gates of Westover Air Force Base. The action there brought to 185 the number arrested since last Friday. Police said the protesters attempted to block traffic into the base.

The University of Wyoming Student Senate voted 24-2 not to demonstrate against the war. Dennis Cohen, a graduate student from New York who had wanted to promote a demonstration at the Laramie, Wyo., school called the Senate's action a vote of fear.

SHERIFF Charles Murray entered the administration building at the University of Pennsylvania shortly after noon and served a temporary injunction on some 200 students who had barricaded themselves inside since Wednesday night.

The sheriff thanked the demonstrators for clearing the barricaded doorway for him and then put his men to tearing down remaining barricades.

At William Paterson State College in Wayne, N.J., about 60 student and faculty war protesters were suspended Thursday night after they ignored demands that they break up a sit-in in the office of the president. The demonstrators left after they were served with an injunction.

A blue and white jersey given to President Nixon last fall by four co-captains of the Whitman College football team became the object of a tug of war over the President's war policies.

Four leaders of the Whitman student body demanded that Nixon return the jersey because, they said, "the only way to reach Richard Nixon is through the medium of football."

STUDENT members of the Majority Coalition "liberated" Columbia University's physics building, Pupin Hall, Friday — the second building on the campus freed of antiwar protesters by the group in two days. A spokeswoman for student strikers said they had taken some of the university's war research files.

About 40 members of the coalition, a loose-knit anti-strike group which has accused the school administration of "cowardice," early Friday morning forced their way into Pupin and scuffled with about 50 protesters.

The confrontation appeared to be a standoff until the protesters walked out of the building and desks and other items blocking doors and windows were removed.

150 rally, seek release of Corona in mass-death case

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Chanting "Free Corona Now," 150 to 200 supporters of accused mass murderer Juan V. Corona, including his wife and young daughters, rallied Friday on the State Capitol steps.

Speaking in Spanish and her hands trembling, Mrs. Gloria Corona told the demonstrators her husband has been in jail for nearly a year.

"We want him to return home," she declared.

Corona's 10-year-old daughter, Martha, said, "I want justice for my father."

CORONA's brother, Pedro, wearing a sign declaring "Whiteaker is the murderer!!," also appealed in Spanish for justice.

The sign referred to Sutter County Sheriff Roy Whiteaker, who arrested Corona last May on charges of hacking to death 25 itinerant farm workers and burying their bodies in shallow graves along the Feather River.

Corona is currently being held in the county jail in Yuba City, awaiting trial.

"THEY ARE mentally torturing him and saying he is mentally sick and unable to be released," the statement said. It also appealed for donations to the Juan Corona defense fund.

Frank Vega, who is leading the fund drive, said, "Nothing has happened big in Yuba City since the days of Wyatt Earp and Billy the Kid. Sheriff Whiteaker is trying to make a name for himself."

Copper tubing from a massive, $60,000 sculptured fountain to be installed on the grounds of the Long Beach Museum of Art was stolen from the city's public-service yard at 1601 San Francisco Ave., Long Beach police reported Friday.

Sculptor Claire Falkenstein spent two years creating the copper tubing and fused glass fountain which was stored in the yard until a terrazzo pool

The demonstration was organized by a group from Sacramento City College called "Justicia para Juan V. Corona — justice for Juan V. Corona."

The group distributed a statement in Spanish and English which said that Corona was "framed" and was being "politically tried."

It declared that Whiteaker tried to "brainwash" the public into accepting Corona's alleged guilt by showing a machete, shovels and other material supposedly linked with slayings.

Richard Hawk, Corona's defense attorney, told the protesters that next week he planned to file a motion to suppress the search warrant which enabled Whiteaker to seize articles in Corona's home.

Referring to the cost of moving the trial out of Sutter County as ordered by an appellate court here, Hawk said, "I don't give a damn how much this costs Sutter County."

He said Corona is pleased by the recent demonstrations in support of him.

"There is a smile on his face now when he goes to court," Hawk declared.

THE CONCORD attorney also commented on an effort to seek a legislative investigation of the change of venue in the Corona case and other similar cases which have received widespread publicity.

He said the move by Assemblyman Ray Johnson, R-Chico, was an attempt to make "political hay."

"He's just a man shooting off his mouth about something he knows nothing about," Hawk said.

Tubing stolen from $60,000 sculpture for L.B. museum

Copper tubing from a massive, $60,000 sculptured fountain to be installed on the grounds of the Long Beach Museum of Art was stolen from the city's public-service yard at 1601 San Francisco Ave., Long Beach police reported Friday.

Sculptor Claire Falkenstein spent two years creating the copper tubing and fused glass fountain which was stored in the yard until a terrazzo pool was completed for it at the museum.

Police said thieves took two 4-by 8-foot sections of 4-inch tubing and one 8-by 10-foot section of 2-inch copper tubing. Both were welded into an intricate, spaghetti-like pattern and joined to the main section of the fountain, officers said.

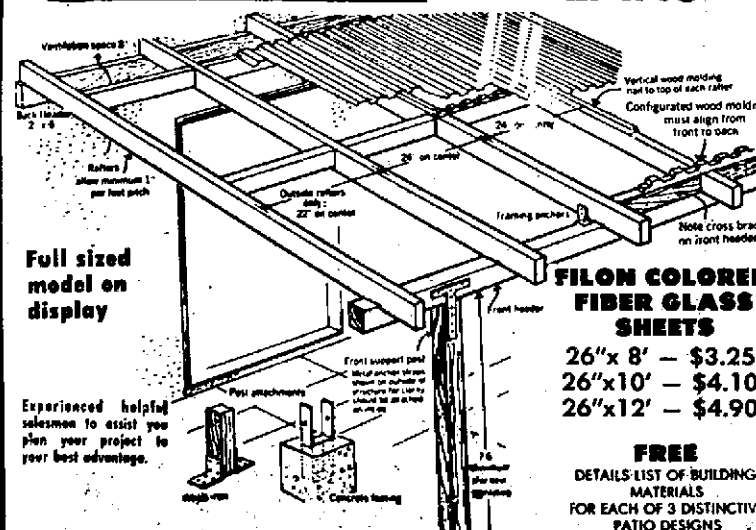

Investigators said the tubing apparently was hauled off in a truck sometime between 4 p.m.

Wednesday and 7 p.m. Thursday when the theft was discovered.

The fountain is stored in the yard in three sections. The centerpiece weighs about 2,000 pounds and each side segment weighs an estimated 1,500 pounds.

The work was originally commissioned by Dr. Louis L. Heyn for his Hollywood Hills home. After he sold the house, the fountain was donated to the Long Beach museum.

It's time for a change

He's only two-months old but Matthew Johnson of Long Beach knows it's time for a change to Daylight Savings Time. Matthew, who'll be sleeping like a baby at 2 a.m. Sunday when the time change becomes official, is depending on his mother, Mrs. Mary Johnson, to turn the clock ahead an hour at bedtime tonight. Looking ahead to the end of daylight time the last Sunday in October, Matthew's advice to clock-watchers is simple: "Spring ahead, fall back."

Campaign quiet with 10 days left before L.B. primary vote

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Only 10 days remain before Long Beach voters go to the polls on May 9 for the municipal primary election, but the campaign to date has been a comparatively quiet one.

Forty-seven candidates are running for the nine City Council seats and the offices of city attorney, city auditor and city prosecutor.

Not even the seven proposed charter amendments, which range from changes to streamline election procedures to a proposal to raise councilmen's salaries from $200 to $500 a month, have drawn much controversy.

City Clerk Margaret L. Moore said Friday that 177,693 registered voters are eligible to cast ballots May 9.

The total is about 16,590 more than were eligible for the last regular city elections in 1969, but is only 84 higher than the registration for the special recall election of Dec. 15, 1970.

In the 1969 municipal primary, the total vote was 47,837, a turnout of 28.68 per cent. The 1969 municipal general election drew 53,220 voters, a 33 per-cent turnout.

The attempted recall of four councilmen in December, 1970, brought 80,691 persons to the polls, a turnout of 45.4 per cent.

Mrs. Moore also announced Friday that her office has received 250 requests for absentee ballots for the May 9 election. Tuesday is the final day on which to apply for absentee ballots, she said.

The total of registered voters for the May 9 primary, broken down by council district, is as follows:

First District—18,132.
Second District—22,409.
Third District—23,761.
Fourth District—21,741.

CITY CLERK MOORE

Fifth District—21,781.
Sixth District—14,090.
Seventh District—16,874.
Eighth District—19,734.
Ninth District—19,176.

Neighborhood tosses party for its beloved retiring mailman

By DENISE KUSEL
Staff Writer

Conrad Fee is the kind of mailman who puts the "zip" in the zip code.

Fee retired Friday after 18 years in the postal service. The patrons on his route in the 4700 block of Coldbrook Avenue in Lakewood held a block party for him, because as the woman who organized the party, Mrs. Bea Fulcher said, "He's always doing special things for us."

Things like making an extra trip to deliver a letter to a family that has been waiting to hear from their son in Vietnam.

Or carrying a box of dog yummies in his mail pouch to hand out to canine friends along his route.

Coldbrook Avenue looked a little different Friday afternoon.

Red, white and blue streamers, hanging from trees, danced crazily in the breeze. A huge sheet cake, donated by a local bakery with the message, "Good Luck, Conrad" rested side by side with a plate of homemade cookies and an "Uncle Sam" hat.

Fee wasn't aware of the plans.

Lakewood Postmistress Ora G. Knudson, who considers Fee "one of the backbones of our office," arranged for another postman to cover the rest of his route while he joined in the festivities.

Fee's wife, Jean, also attended.

A VETERAN of World War II and the Korean conflict, Fee retired from the Navy in 1953 with the rank of chief gunner's mate.

Born in Virginia, Fee and his wife have lived in Long Beach for 28 years.

They have two daughters, a son, and six grandchildren.

The Fee's have bought a mobile home and plan to retire in Boulder City near Lake Mead.

Fee will still be carrying the mail — this time for himself — Boulder City doesn't have a regular mail delivery system and he'll have to go to his post office box to pick up his letters.

McComb explains his death-penalty dissent

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

State Supreme Court Justice Marshall McComb, the lone dissenter in the court's recent decision to abolish the death penalty, says he believes judges should never use their own moral judgment in making decisions.

McComb, in Long Beach to address a Law Day dinner held by the city's bar association, was reluctant to talk about the death penalty decision in a pre-dinner interview.

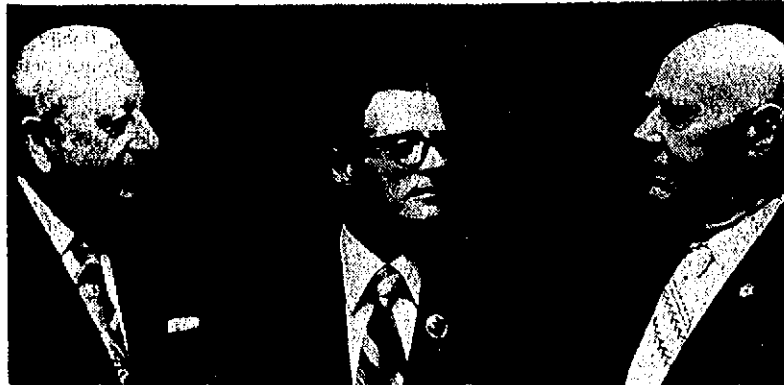

BUT HE DID make clear the judicial basis for his dissent.

"The people of the state of California are our employers," McComb said. "We must make our decisions based on the will of the people as expressed through the law."

"A judge shouldn't base his ruling on what he personally thinks about the law."

He implied that he believed justices who voted for abolishing the death penalty had substituted their own moral judgments for existing, written law.

The 77-year-old McComb, appointed to the state high court by Gov. Goodwin Knight in 1956, based his dissent to the court's landmark Feb. 18 decision largely on his belief that the court was interfering in areas reserved for the lawmakers — in this case, the State Legislature.

HE SAID that the division between the legislative, judicial and executive branch must be kept, and he indicated that the death penalty decision had blurred that division.

The court, in a 6-1 decision, ruled that the death penalty was in violation of the state Constitution because it was a cruel and unusual punishment.

The U.S. Supreme Court rejected a March 20 request by State Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger to keep the court decision from going into effect until it could be appealed.

A proposed initiative measure would amend the state Constitution to make the death penalty legal, but before that happens the State Legislature may put it on the November ballot.

McComb said he didn't care which avenue got the measure on the ballot and appeared indifferent about the outcome.

Despite his dissent from the opinion of his fellow justices, McComb said that respect remained between himself and his colleagues.

L.B. lawyers honor 4 Rep. Hosmer for community service

A police lieutenant, two educators and the local executive director of the American Cancer Society were recipients Friday of Long Beach Bar Association Liberty Bell awards for community service.

Honored at the association's annual Law Day dinner were:

Lt. John C. Cowan, head of Long Beach Police Department's community relations detail.

INA O. LUNDH, assistant director of curriculum and instruction for the Long Beach Unified School District.

Harold M. "Hal" Schaffer, head of California State College at Long Beach EPIC (Educational Participation in Community) program.

Betty Lou Seaman's American Cancer Society work has included volunteer undercover investigation for the state of quackery in treatment of cancer and other diseases.

The awards are made each year to citizens whose service to the community "strengthens the effectiveness of the American system of freedom under law."

The presentation to Cowan recognized his squad's programs on police services and crime prevention that are seen by more than 100,000 persons annually, including his participation in the bar association's Law in a Free Society project for Long Beach schoolchildren.

Mrs. Lundh received her Liberty Bell for many years' volunteer work against drug abuse, plus service with the Long Beach Safety Council on pedestrian and bicycle safety and with other public-service organizations. She is chairman of the school district-community drug education committee, administering state Department of Education programs, and active with the police narcotics division and juvenile bureau.

Schaffer, 32, working for his master's degree at CSLB, heads 250 college volunteers who donate some 30,000 student hours per year under the EPIC program for community-service organizations and gain preprofessional experience for themselves.

MRS. SEAMAN, nine years the executive head of the cancer society, is active in many related medical fields, including membership on St. Mary's Hospital board of trustees and master planning committee, vice chairmanship of the Regional Medical Program for the entire community and active participation in the citizens' task force for rebuilding the county's Long Beach General Hospital.

Lynwood Lions to hail 4-legged lothario Frasier

Frasier, the potent patriarch of Lion Country Safari, will be honored Sunday at a picnic in Lynwood.

One of Frasier's cubs will stand in for his busy papa when the Lynwood Lions Club makes Frasier an honorary member. The occasion is the annual family day, this year named the Frasier Day Picnic and held from 2 to 4 p.m. at Lynwood Park, Century Boulevard and Bullis Road.

Members of the public are welcome but must bring their own food, a club spokesman said.

Oil drilling leaves L.B. area stable

With the possible exception of Island Chaffee, the entire Long Beach area which might be effected by subsidence from tideland oil operations is "essentially stable or rising slightly," the city said Friday.

The Long Beach Department of Oil Properties said its subsidence monitoring survey for the year ending in February showed an elevation loss on Island Chaffee of about 1.5 inches.

This loss, however, is not confirmed by tide gauge readings, according to City Manager John R. Mansell.

Mansell said additional readings will be taken to insure that accurate elevations are available at the August survey.

Except for the Island Chaffee figures, the subsidence report showed elevation gains along the entire Long Beach waterfront, the department said.

These gains ranged from 1.2 inches near the westerly city boundary to one-quarter inch at the Alamitos Bay entrance channel.

$175,000 goal Fund drive to finish retarded youth school

A drive to raise $175,000 to help complete payment for a new Harbor Area Retarded Children's Foundation School in San Pedro will be started by volunteer workers Monday.

Dr. George M. Wall, M.D., director of the school which now is housed in five small bungalows on the upper reservation at Ft. MacArthur, said federal and state participating funds, totaling $276,000 will not become available until payments have been made for work under way.

Foundation directors recently completed negotiations for the purchase of the former Southern California Gas Co. building at 600 W. Eighth St., San Pedro. The property is expected to be ready for the fall school session and will have room for 124 students.

The volunteer workers will kick off the funding drive at an 8 p.m. meeting Monday, at the Yugoslav Women's Club building, 19th Street and Cabrillo Avenue. President of the foundation is Mrs. Aida Slavich of San Pedro.

Wall has pointed out that the retarded children "can be and are taught to take a useful part in community life. The least we can do is give them this chance for normal life."

Thomas span traffic up 5.6%

Traffic on the Vincent Thomas Bridge between Terminal Island and San Pedro was up 5.6 per cent during the first quarter of this year as compared with the same period in 1971, the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings has reported.

Officials said 1,513,483 crossings of the bridge were recorded.

Rosary to be recited Sunday for J. E. Daly

Rosary will be recited Sunday at 4:30 p.m. in Sheelar-Stricklin Chapel for Joseph E. Daly, an attorney for 52 years, the last 26 in Long Beach. Requiem Mass will be celebrated Monday, 9 a.m. in St. Matthew's Church. Mr. Daly died Thursday at the age of 86.

A native of Fremont, Neb., and a graduate of Creighton Law School, he was a life member of Long Beach Elks Lodge 888.

Surviving are daughters Helen Crawford, Lenore O'wiler; sisters, Rose Meals, Lenore Girard, Frances Dolan, and four grandchildren.

Community to confront church leaders in unique open forum

In a unique program departure, the "civic community" will confront and challenge the "faith community" of Long Beach at the annual Interreligious Institute to be held Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. in the St. Anthony High cafeteria, 863 E. Sixth St.

Four speakers (presentators) who are involved in community concerns will speak briefly on the subject of what they think the religious community is or is not doing on these issues. There will then be responses by six people (responders) who are active in religious life. Following this, there will be give and take between all the panelists and the audience.

The program, to which the public is invited free, will be chaired by Msgr. Ernest Gualderon of St. Anthony. Presentators will be Joseph Brooks, deputy director, U.S. Civil Rights Commission; Ray Brosthaus, director, Community Development; Sylvia Strum, chairman, Community Planning Council; and Veronica Tischer, past president, League of Women Voters, and co-chairman, Mayor's Task Force on Education.

Responders will be Frank Bowman, Immanuel Baptist Church; Arthur Close Jr., St. Anthony Church; Sol Frankel, Jewish Community Center; George Higgins, Geneva Presbyterian Church; Dr. Julius Robbins, Temple Israel, and James Sullivan, St. Joseph Catholic Church.

The fifth annual event is sponsored by the Long Beach Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, in cooperation with the major faith communities.

Briefly... Best exchange, note to a widow, hot line

No less than 40 area churches will observe the annual "Bridges of Reconciliation Sunday" tomorrow with exchanges of pastors, choirs and lay leaders, reports Rev. Don Lindblom of the local Council of Churches. This is a new high, and includes several denominations participating for the first time.

This is one of the many publicized works of the Council. No church involved surrenders its distinctive and own rich traditions. On the contrary, it proudly shows it to those with other backgrounds, and all gain a new appreciation for the other.

Chairman of the day this year was Rev. George Johnson of Christ Lutheran, who incidentally will exchange with Rev. H. David Burcham of Covenant Presbyterian, becoming the first Lutheran to preach from that church's pulpit.

Denominations involved in Sunday's exchanges: Lutheran, United Presbyterian, United Methodist, American Baptist, Church of God, African Methodist Episcopal, Christian Methodist Episcopal, Christian Church Disciples, Episcopal, Christian Reformed, Salvation Army, Naval Station Chapel and Navy Hospital chaplaincy.

OUR BELATED condolences to Mrs. Helen Rhoades on the passing of her husband, Rev. J. Irving Rhoades, with whom we enjoyed chatting over recent years. He left his mark on Long Beach with an unusual ministry during which he was founding pastor of Bixby Knolls Christian, industrial chaplain at Douglas, and a well-loved associate minister at Bayshore Congregational and Geneva Presbyterian. He was one of the founding forces in Long Beach's model released time Christian education program, in which Mrs. Rhoades has taught for many years.

MELODYLAND Drug Prevention Center, one of the nation's first and most successful "hot line" 24-hour Christian efforts, breaks ground Sunday for a 5,000 sq. ft. headquarters and training facility across from Disneyland.

CLARIFICATION: Last week we noted that the Rabbinical Alliance of America, an orthodox Jewish group, came out against the equal rights for women amendment, as a threat to religious liberty.

It turns out that this is not the major Orthodox grouping, but an alliance of five ultra-conservative rabbinic groups. Following their statement, the Rabbinical Council of America, largest of the Orthodox groups, countered with its own position, which is not against the equal right amendment. They say "the breakdown of religious and moral values" is the threat to sexual standards — not amendments aimed at equality.

THERE'S ALWAYS room for a little good news

Abortion is 'murder' —Orth. Presbyterians

The Presbytery of Southern California, representing Orthodox Presbyterians from Goleta to San Diego, voted in their April meeting to witness against the practice of abortion, which they called "murder," saying that human life is treated by the Bible as beginning at conception. Such a position, they added, does not remove the obligation to show concrete expressions of care and compassion to those experiencing the trauma of unwanted pregnancy.

Church needs prodding, says women's leader

By LES RODNEY

"Yes, there have been changes in the role of women in the church, but they are more in the higher echelons than on the local level. In the churches they still think women are the ones who make the meat loaf and arrange the flowers. There's a long way to go."

Barbara Hoepfl, president of the Long Beach Unit of Church Women United, is not one for rosy-glow optimism. Or one for hiding her own strong views of what is right and wrong.

She wears a metal medallion which proclaims "War is not healthy for children and other living things." She writes letters to the newspapers, to her senators and representatives. ("My husband sometimes thinks I'm trying to support the post office on his salary.") The Hoepfls campaigned vigorously against Proposition 13, which they saw as a denial of fair housing rights. Their residence was four times smeared with crude oil at the time, and the phone jangled late at night with anonymous threats.

"It was unpleasant," she says, "but I would do the same thing again, in the same way. As a Christian, I feel I must insist on human dignity and human rights for all people, the same rights I enjoy."

"CHRISTIAN" IS the operative word.

"I agree," she says, "with the writer of James when he said 'I will show you my faith by my actions. So you see that a man is put right with God by what he does, and not because of faith alone.' That's James 2:14-24."

She feels that the church must speak to the great moral issues of the day, but she also insists that it remember that it is the church. She was spiritual life chairman of Church Women United for two years, insists on never neglecting the devotional life, and feels there is room for betterment in this area. "If we're not led by the Holy Spirit," she puts it, "we might as well just join the March of Dimes."

No, Mrs. Barbara Hoepfl wouldn't object to the word "chairman" in the above, nor would she prefer to be called Ms.

"I don't really go along with Women's Lib in a great way," she observes. "I don't want to be liberated any more than I am now. I enjoy doing things at home and don't find chores boring, because I have other things to think about at the same time. However, I certainly agree that a woman should be paid the same amount of money for a job well done that a man on the same job would get."

Barbara Farnum was born in New Hampshire 51 years ago, but grew up in Kansas, getting her high school education and her early Christian Church Disciples of Church foundation in Topeka. She majored in journalism at Phillips University in Enid, Oklahoma and coincidentally worked on the staff of the school paper while both were freshmen with Ben Zinser, now medical editor of these newspapers.

"Ben then left and went to a proper journalism school," she says with a chuckle, "and that's why he's a pro and I'm a hack."

SHE CAME to Long Beach to live in 1955, and in 1959 married John G. Hoepfl, a local accountant. The Hoepfls proved that husband and wife could work together when they put in three years as joint publicity chairmen of the Long Beach Area Council of Churches, for which organization Mrs. Hoepfl has done voluntary work in various capacities since her arrival in town.

She is also on the steering committee of the House of Zaccaria, a downtown coffee house ("serves certain needs that are not often met otherwise," she says), works with the National Conference of Christians and Jews on its programs, and helps out when she can with Women in Community Service.

"I was publicity chairman for a while for the local United Nations Association," she says, "but gave it up recently as I felt I could no longer devote the necessary time to it. I never work at a job halfway and don't take a job I don't feel I can do — except typing," (the last said ruefully.)

"John and I may be two of the last people left who don't own a TV set," she adds. "We don't have time for TV." But they like baseball, and do manage to see quite a few Dodger games every season.

Mrs. Hoepfl is in her second year as president of the churchwomen. The national organization, not affiliated with any other, has branches in all 50 states and gives its credo as "to grow in understanding our faith as Christians and ourselves as women, to act as reconciling agents of social change in a global community, to serve as volunteers in programs helping disadvantaged persons, to speak about common concerns, to celebrate the joy of God's spirit at work in human relationships."

THE LOCAL unit includes women from 58 Protestant churches. "We cooperate with Catholic women on specific events, such as World Day of Prayer," Mrs. Hoepfl relates. She would like to see Catholic women join the unit some day, as they have in several parts of the country.

Hoffman House, Long Beach's successful pioneering halfway house for women on parole or probation from prison, owes a lot to Church Women United. "Dorothy Hoffman, the founder, is deeply involved in CWU work," Mrs. Hoepfl explains, "and we were one of the project's three original sponsors."

Perhaps the president's greatest pride is in the Boyd Memorial Foundation Ethnic School, a major project of the local women.

"It is a great idea, one whose time has come. In the spirit of the late Dr. Boyd, who was pastor of Grant Chapel A. M. E. Church and a force for reconciliation, the school teaches black love and pride rather than racial hate. John and I feel this is about our most important interest right now. Please remind your readers that the school is having an open house May 13th."

The American Bible Society and its work is another enthusiasm of the local churchwomen, who help on many levels, from public events such as the bringing last fall of "Good News" artist Anne Vallotton to Long Beach, to distribution of scripture in rest homes.

The age level in CWU is not young. "Many of the members are over 50," Mrs. Hoepfl notes. "There are several reasons," she says. "In the earlier years women are generally busy raising their family. And then, let's face it, women in their twenties and thirties are just not as interested, they volunteer for work in secular organizations like the Red Cross, March of Dimes, etc. and have no special problems there as women. The church still lags in this regard."

In spite of the good works performed, Mrs. Hoepfl often feels frustrated.

"So many people basically remain spectators,

BARBARA HOEPFL
"Must Show Faith by Actions"

apathy is still the sin. The church needs prodding all the time." She sighed. "It's difficult sometimes to get one to understand that you prod them because you love them."

"The thing is we are able to only touch the surface of many projects, without much real involvement. Mostly we are not willing to make a really meaningful sacrifice. Sometimes I feel all used up and totally inadequate because of the great needs in so many areas. We just aren't the Christians we claim to be, or many of the social problems of the day wouldn't exist."

"But we can't quit, can we?"

MLA wife at Baptist church

Special recognition will be given Sunday at 11 a.m. to the National League of Families for American Prisoners of War at Immanuel Baptist Church, 3215 E. Third Street.

Janice Lyon will speak during the service. Her husband, Maj. Donovan Lyon, an Air Force pilot, has been missing-in-action since March 1968. She will represent the California POW organization, whose role is to alert the public to the plight of those who are prisoners of war and missing in action.

PRAYER MEET AT AUDITORIUM

The "Spiritual Fiesta" at Municipal Auditorium will conclude tonight at 7:30 and Sunday at 3 p.m. with testimony, music and prayers for the sick.

The team of 13 Pentecostal evangelists from Richmond, Va., has been touring the world for four months, and reports successful meetings everywhere.

Abortion right OK'd

Methodists nix homosexual life, back Viet foes

ATLANTA — United Methodists, comprising the country's second largest Protestant denomination, this week solved to their satisfaction the dilemma of expressing Christian concern for homosexuals as people, while not appearing to sanction their way of life.

In a document of social concerns adopted by the General Conference after vigorous debate and amendments by 1,000 delegates representing 11 million Methodists, conscientious draft resisters were supported, gambling was hit as a menace to society and abortion was approved in some cases.

THE DELEGATES modified a section concerning the civil rights of homosexuals to read, "We do not condone the practice and consider this practice incompatible with Christianity."

The statement read in part, "Homosexuals no less than heterosexuals are persons of sacred worth, who need the ministry and guidance of the church in their struggles for human fulfillment."

The statement on abortion reads, "Our belief in the sanctity of unborn human life makes us reluctant to approve abortion. But we are equally bound to respect the sacredness of the life and well-being of the mother, for whom devastating damage may result from an unacceptable pregnancy."

The resolution backing draft resisters was one of the strongest to come from a major Protestant denomination, outside of the traditional "peace churches" such as the Friends, Brethren and Mennonites. It suggested consideration of amnesty by the government for those who are opposed to the Vietnam war. Earlier in the week, the convention strongly condemned U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia, calling it "an intolerable monstrosity" and calling for withdrawal of all troops by year's end and a halt to bombing. This was before the President's speech on Vietnam.

"We assert the duties of churches to support everyone who suffers from cause of conscience and urge the government to seriously consider restoration of rights to such persons while also maintaining respect for those who obey," the doctrine said.

"We support... those who oppose all war or any particular war and who, therefore, refuse to serve in the armed services."

"We Support measures that would reduce the concentration of wealth in the hands of the few," the delegates also said. "We further support efforts to revise the tax structure and eliminate governmental support programs that now benefit the wealthy at the expense of other persons."

THE SOCIAL doctrine also:

—Supported the right of public and private employees to organize for collective bargaining.

—Disapproved gambling as a "menace to society" and included in that church charities and public lotteries.

—Urged government support for guaranteeing the right to adequate food, clothing, shelter, education and health care.

—Supported full rights for women.

CHURCHWOMEN'S MAY FELLOWSHIP

"Behold the Woman" will be the theme of the May Fellowship Day celebration sponsored by Church Women United Friday at the Salvation Army Temple, 453 E. Spring St.

Afternoon speaker will be Mrs. John Adams, a teacher and wife of the pastor of Grant Chapel A.M.E. of Los Angeles. The program begins with worship and music at 11 a.m. Luncheon is by ticket or reservation only, with deadline Monday.

Women attending are asked to bring a can of meat, fruit or vegetable for the Salvation Army pantry.

Hussein example of real courage

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Years ago as a very young man I spoke one Sunday to the students at a New England college. Afterward I was invited to lunch at the home of a grizzled and, as it proved, philosophical professor. He presented me with a little book, an essay by James Barrie called "Courage."

"The one thing you will need in this life," the professor said, "is courage, or shall we say just plain guts. You'll need it to carry on, to stand up to things, and to keep on keeping on. This little book may help you."

And so it did. How right that professor was. You have to have what it takes to meet and not be defeated by the problems and resistances, the difficulties and suffering which come to all of us.

RECENTLY I was a guest at a state dinner in the White House, at which the honored guest was King Hussein of Jordan, perhaps the most liberal and creative of all Arab leaders.

During dinner the guests were entertained by the United States Army Chorus in a program of songs. At the President's special request the chorus sang "Stout-Hearted Men" by Sigmund Romberg. Later in personal conversation the President explained why he had asked for that particular number. It was because this rather diminutive young King wouldn't even be alive, let alone on the throne, unless he had possessed courage and plenty of guts to face opposition, even threat of assassination.

I understood the reference, for I met the King first when he was 22 years old; he is now 36. He was with his grandfather, King Abdullah, when the latter was stabbed to death as he prayed in a mosque in Jerusalem. His father had a short reign; then the present King Hussein came to a very shaky throne at age 17. Apparently the high individualized Arabs are not easy to govern; the tribesmen's loyalty comes only after testing.

Mr. Austin Kiplinger of the Kiplinger Washington Letter told me the following story at that White House dinner:

A vast number of Jordanian soldiers descended on the Royal Palace with the avowed purpose of killing the King. Yelling threats, they surrounded the building, overwhelming the guards on duty.

Impervious to all threats, the young King calmly walked out of the palace and mounted a jeep. The shouting and cursing was deafening. The King stood quietly until the mob quieted enough for him to speak. "Soldiers of Jordan," he said, "I know why you have come here." He paused, then declared, "I am your king. If any soldier among you would take the life of his King, here I am."

There ensued a dead silence. Then with one accord came a tremendous cheer. He won them, for they knew their King was a terrific man, a man with courage and guts.

Not many of us in life will face so dramatic a test of courage. Indeed, most tests of our guts will be a quiet facing of frustration, or defeat, or serious illness, or grief. There will be no mobs either to threaten or cheer. We will just have to face some tough things alone, unheralded and unsung, a kind of midnight lonely courage, the real downright guts to fight back against circumstance.

THIS REMINDS me of a man I worked for as a very young boy. It was an after-school and Saturday job in a grocery store—not a supermarket, but a one-man, privately owned grocery of the old school. I was the only employee and the job was to keep the stock on the shelves and sweep out. I also waited on trade when it was busy.

The grocer had experienced one blow after another; his wife died, his son got mixed up in some trouble, and to top it off, ill-health struck him. But he always had a smile on "A very interesting presentation, but all we're interested in, up here, is the final figure."

COLLEGE HEAD

DR. DENNIS F. Kinlaw, president of Asbury College of Kentucky, will speak Sunday at 7 p.m. in North Long Beach United Methodist Church, 5600 Linden Ave. He has been visiting professor at Seoul Theological College in Korea, and professor of Old Testament Languages and literature at Asbury Theological Seminary.

MISSION HEAD

REV. PAUL MCCOY, southwest regional director of the Oriental Missionary Society, will speak Sunday at 10:45 a.m. in Evangelical United Methodist Church, 1700 Temple Ave. He and Mrs. McCoy are back from visiting OMS work in Haiti, Columbia and Ecuador, where he used his musical talents as well.

his face and never said a word to anyone about his troubles. Young as I was, I couldn't help wondering where he got his courage and strength. I sensed that here was quite a man.

One day I missed him for a few minutes. Since a customer was asking for him, I went to the back room looking for him, and there I found him. He was on his knees surrounded by the groceries. I stopped short. His hands were clasped in prayer. He sensed my presence and arose. "Son," he said, "when trouble comes, it's the Lord Who gives you the courage to endure." Along the road of memory I've never forgotten that simple man who fought his battles in the back room and who came out with plenty of courage and the guts to carry on.

First Nisei priest greeted by Long Beach Buddhists

Rev. Roy Ryosho Kokuzo has begun his ministry at Long Beach Buddhist Church, marking the first time a Nisei priest has been resident minister of the church at 2360 Santa Fe Ave.

Kokuzo, 32, is a native of Hilo in Hawaii. He is a graduate of the University of Hawaii, with a B.A. in Asian studies. He then went to Japan for his ministerial education, graduating from Komazawa University in Tokyo with a masters in Buddhist philosophy. He also took his Zen Buddhist training in Japan, then returned to the United States as the English-speaking priest with the Soto Mission of Hawaii, working with youth groups.

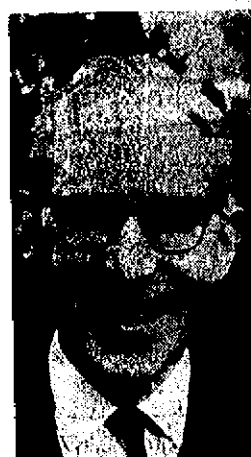

REV. KOKUZO

He will conduct two services on Sundays, at 10 a.m. in English and 11:30 a.m. in Japanese. "The English service," he explains, "is primarily for the younger members of the congregation, and the Japanese language service for the older people." There are some basic cultural differences between the two services, such as chanting in Japanese.

There are some Caucasians in the congregation and all are welcomed, though Buddhists are not evangelistic.

"Perhaps part of the appeal of Zen Buddhism to many young Americans in recent years," says Kokuzo, "is the philosophy of individual choice, and also the fact that Zen is life itself in a sense not always found in other religions."

Reformed Bible meet to hear English leader

The annual Reformed Bible Conference on Biblical life and doctrine, sponsored by conservative Reformed and Presbyterian churches, will hold its first session Monday at Long Beach Orthodox Presbyterian Church, San Antonio Drive and Linden Avenue, at 7:30 p.m.

Speaker is Dr. J. I. Packer, of Trinity College, Bristol, England. A well-known lecturer, he is author of "Fundamentalism and the Word of God" and was editor of the New Bible Dictionary. He will speak Monday on "I Believe in the Holy Spirit."

The conference continues through the week at other Southland churches.

Korea choir

The Korean Children's Choir will return to North America beginning with a concert in California Oct. 13.

Ex-pastor back for anniversary

Rev. J. Orville Martin, who pastored Long Beach Immanuel Lutheran Church from 1945 to 1950, during which time the church moved to its present site at 345 Carson St., will be pulpit guest Sunday, 10 a.m.

He is coming from Excelsior, Minn., where he has been a pastor since 1958. Rev. and Mrs. Martin were invited by the church's Anniversary Committee in the year-long celebration of Immanuel's 50th year.

At 6:30 p.m. a family night program with music and refreshment has been planned.

GOINGS ON

The Brass Choir from Westmont College in Santa Barbara featuring a brass quintet and trombone quartet, will present a concert of classical and sacred music Sunday, 7:15 p.m. at Bethel Reformed of Bellflower, 10012 E. Ramona Ave.

Dr. J. Richard Sneed, nationally known clergyman, author and lecturer who was minister of Los Angeles First Methodist before switching to Religious Science, will speak Sunday, 9:30 a.m. at El Dorado Clubhouse in Leisure World, Seal Beach, and at 11 a.m. in Marina Community Center, 151 Marina Drive, Seal Beach. A national radio broadcaster over Mutual for many years, his writings have appeared in 70 magazines. He has been chaplain 12 years of Al Malaikah Shrine Temple. As a Methodist executive, he has been to Russia, the Middle East and Asia. His appearances Sunday are sponsored by the Seal Beach Church of Religious Science.

The Emissaries Instrumental Quartet, former hermits of the Rose Parade, and Youth for Christ instrumental artists, who have traveled throughout the world as missionaries, will appear Sunday, 10:45 a.m. in Evangelical United Methodist, 1700 Temple Ave.

The Valley Christian Acapella Choir will appear Sunday, 6:30 p.m. in First Orthodox Presbyterian, San Antonio and Linden. A Saturday night musical tonight at 7:30 in Harbor City Foursquare, 255th and McCoy, will feature the Freedom Singers, the Gospel Melodies, Gospel Teens and evangelist Don McNair and his silver trumpet. First Presbyterian of Downey, will present a concert Sunday 7:30 p.m. featuring Thomas Tatton, violinist.

"The Eternal Drama" will be discussed Sunday, 3 p.m., at the Theosophical Society, 602 Pacific Ave. by Ken Laurence, actor and director of the Hollywood Theater Society. Church of Christ of Garden Grove, 12592 Nelson St., will deal with religious controversy including miraculous gifts and Holy Spirit baptism Monday through Thursday at 7:30 p.m. with evangelist Bill Fling and Benjamin Franklin of Melodyland.

Conflict of any kind is never sought after by peace loving people. Any rational person, and a Christian in particular, can find no pleasure in war of any kind. Good will and understanding between nations needs to be promoted in order to avoid armed conflict.
At the same time, there are things worse than war. The loss of honor, the surrender of truth, the loss of liberty—these are possessions worth fighting for. We are told to "contend for the faith." To do so is to be branded an intolerant bigot by those who "hold the truth in unrighteousness."
Here at Calvary Baptist of Bellflower, we take a definite stand for truth. We believe God's Word to be eternal and therefore preach it without apology or compromise. We invite you to join us in our effort to uphold the Gospel of Christ.
Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

Anglican asks plan to exorcise devil

LONDON (AP) — The bishop of Exeter called on the Church of England this week to set up training programs for exorcists so every diocese could have its own expert at driving out the devil.

"The need for the restoration of the practice of exorcism to its proper place is becoming steadily more urgent and more evident," wrote Bishop Robert Mortimer in his report of a 10-year unofficial study.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Horoscope section by JEANE DIXON, featuring a zodiac wheel and forecasts for various signs.

Forecast for Sunday

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Think first of your home and its enhancement. Age groups tend to clash — you can help bridge the gaps and keep peace.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be patient as last minute changes in circumstances bring schedule shifts and challenges. Pause, so that puzzles solve themselves.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Financial understandings are tested in the family. Keep your share of spending and discussion sparse.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may be undecided so say little of it until you have a definite plan. Temptation is to let others decide; this sektom works well.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Find extra time for meditation, at least some unbroken solitude. Aside from this, it's really a day to just loaf.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friends have their own ideas of what to do and where to go. Romantic urges seem short of your ideal. Relax!

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): It's hard to stay calm and in the middle of conflicting influences this busy but undirected Sunday.

Aries (March 21-April 19): This is one of those Sundays when you cannot get away with carelessness or bragging. Say and do what you really mean, take your consequences.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Active imagination brings you creative advances, along with some unrealistic plans and an intriguing thought about money.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Go with the crowd for the moment, let them figure out what to do. Be more their guest than the one who turns the wheels.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Cater to your own needs. If you have any extra energy there are plenty of ways to work it off. Older people need your advice.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): The less you explain, the better since friends and colleagues

Justice Dept. aide hits press

Citing what he said is a clear record of "often inaccurate, biased and grossly unfair reporting," the Justice Department's No. 2 man said Friday in Santa Ana there is a crisis of confidence in the American press.

"The record is replete with the errors of the past," L. Patrick Gray III, acting deputy attorney general, said in a speech prepared for the Law Day banquet of the Orange County Bar Association. "There is no need to repeat them."

"I am unalterably opposed to any attempt to control the press—so also, I am just as opposed to the attempts of the press to control the government," Gray said.

Nearly three-fourths of the 19-page speech text contained what Gray said were examples of inaccurate stories about the Justice Department by The New York Times, The Washington Post, Newsweek magazine and the NBC and CBS television networks.

GRAY also criticized the Times for running an erroneous UPI picture caption despite the fact that UPI filed two corrections before the Times edition was published.

The Justice Department said that, because of time limitations, Gray would read a shortened version of the text.

He cited a 1969 story quoting the attorney for the Black Panthers as saying police across the nation had murdered 28 Panthers in a national scheme by various agencies of the government to "commit genocide upon members of the Black Panther Party."

"With no truth whatever, the charge from this biased source was soon being repeated, not as an allegation, but as an accepted fact, by many news media, including The New York Times and The Washington Post," Gray said.

"One national magazine, Newsweek, stated that the Department of Justice had joined the police and 'escalated the drive' against the Panthers," he said.

Gray said a Chicago Tribune reporter exposed the original charge a few days later but "this story was ignored in the onrush of vilification against law enforcement agencies."

GRAY said that writer Edward J. Epstein also investigated the Black Panther charges for the New Yorker magazine and found that a Panther spokesman could "scrape together" the names of only 19 alleged victims.

Gray said Epstein checked on each of the 19 and found that eight were killed in incidents involving crimes or street shoot-outs in which police had no reason to think they were encountering Black Panthers.

Nine of those whose names were supplied to Epstein were not killed by police, Gray said.

Only two Panther deaths, he said, came while police were conducting a planned raid against the Panthers.

"To its credit," Gray said, "the Washington Post made a full admission of error."

"But this is small compensation," he said, for the sorry spectacle of the press repeating the most damaging charges without the facts."

HOWARD Simons, managing editor of the Post, said, "Gray answers for us on the Black Panthers. We did the honest thing as soon as we learned of our error. And we do it as often as we can when errors are pointed out to us."

Mel Elfin, Washington bureau chief of Newsweek, said, "Gray's comment is unfair and uninformed. The quotation apparently is from a cover story this magazine ran more than two years ago in February of 1970."

any fact or comment in that story. And, indeed, Justice sources told us unofficially that they regarded that story as extremely fair and objective."

Lester Bernstein, Newsweek managing editor, said in New York that Gray quoted Newsweek out of context in his criticism.

"A reading of Newsweek's article makes clear that the 'drive' we described against the Panthers was not a campaign to gun them down, but rather one involving raids, increased surveillance, arrests on weapons and conspiracy charges, and considerations of whether a federal Smith Act case could be brought against party leaders," Bernstein said.

SEYMOUR Topping, assistant managing editor of The New York Times, issued this statement in response to Gray's remarks: "Mr. Gray... presents an incomplete and distorted version of the extensive coverage of the Black Panthers published by the Times over a lengthy period of time," Topping said.

Both NBC and CBS declined to comment until seeing the text of Gray's speech.

Gray also cited a story on the NBC Nightly News last December concerning a grant by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to the city of Miami Beach for improved police services at the Democratic National Convention this summer.

Gray quoted the network as saying that items to be bought with the LEAA funds included armor, a mine detector and hidden microphones and television cameras to keep an eye on areas where demonstrators might get together.

"NO ARMOR and no mine detector were ever listed or intended in the grant," Gray said.

He also criticized a CBS "60 Minutes" show featuring an interview with Leaa administrator Jerris Leonard and critics of his agency.

From coal-burning power plants Southwest pollution fears told by EPA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The planned development of giant coal-burning power plants in the Southwest will smog up the air and may pose health hazards to people, plants and animals, says the Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA has told the Interior Department that such power plants should be required, as a minimum, to meet state and federal air quality standards designed to protect human health.

And if the Southwest's desert air, allowing visibility up to 50 miles or more, is to be protected, EPA said, even more stringent antipollution requirements must be applied.

THE EPA reported on the air and water pollution effects of proposed power plant development as part of a comprehensive study of Southwestern power development, issued April 18 by the Interior Department.

At issue is the present development of six big power plants in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah, two of which are already in operation, plus even greater expansion in the future.

Interior's study concluded that there was no immediate alternative to the construction of coal-burning power plants in the Southwest to meet the power needs of population centers—especially in southern California and New Mexico.

EPA SAID that "power plants presently in operation have caused a significant reduction in . . . visibility, and future developments can be expected to still further impair visibility."

It said combined operations of the Navajo Power Plant under construction in Arizona and the proposed Kaiparowits plant nearby in Utah "can be expected to have a dramatic effect on visibility in nearby canyons of the Colorado River."

"The possibility that such impairment of visibility may extend down the river as far as the Grand Canyon cannot be ruled out," said the EPA report.

INTERIOR'S study was prepared as a substitute for a more formal environmental impact statement requested by environment and Indian groups.

There is a vital difference between the two approaches: if Interior acknowledges the need for a formal impact statement under the Environmental Policy Act of 1969, it would have to suspend the granting of federal authorizations for continued development of the private power plants, involving federal and Indian land, until the study was completed. And that could take a long time.

Environment groups have sued in federal court to require the formal study; they lost at the district court level, but have filed an appeal.

The EPA report said:

"If present emission control technology is projected into the future, ambient air quality standards for sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides can be expected to be violated soon at several locations, causing threats to human health, terrestrial biota plants and animals, and surface water quality."

"The fallout or rainout of initially airborne pollutants," it continued, "can be expected to have a significant impact on terrestrial biota and on water quality."

EPA said that "as a minimum, all power plants in the study area should be required to comply with federal, state and local air pollution control regulations."

If the clear air of the southwest "is to be restored or even held at its present level with increased power plant development, additional stringent air pollution control measures will be necessary on all power plants in the area," said EPA.

The agency estimated at full development the proposed Southwest power plants would be emitting to the air each day some 3,475 pounds of lead, 177 pounds of beryllium, 21 pounds of mercury, 45 pounds of cadmium, 2,459 pounds of chromium, 17,711 pounds of magnesium, 1,039 pounds of nickel, 1,071 pounds of selenium, and 628 pounds of arsenic — all of them considered potential health hazards.

Funds asked to study smog effect on health

By NOEL SWANN
From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisors were urged Friday to ask the state Air Resources Board for funds to cover a study into the effects of air pollution on human health.

The recommendation came from the Air Pollution Control District's scientific and emergency action committees.

In a report to the board, the committees said limited epidemiological, experimental and clinical evidence indicates that smog levels in the county may, over a period of time, be detrimental to the health of residents.

However, they said, definitive data is inadequate and much greater knowledge is needed to safeguard the health of the county's seven million residents.

Amadeus Quartet still excels

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

to complete the Laguna Beach Chamber Music Society's 12th season, the next evening.

As heard in Laguna, Thursday, the quartet from London, absent from these parts since two Aprils ago, seemed slightly fatigued. Small intonational blemishes marred its remembered sound-profile, and a lack of spontaneity marked its playing of quartets by Haydn, Mozart, and Brahms.

But the total of its performance still met that higher standard we have learned to expect from this splendid ensemble (violin Norbert Brainin and Siegmund Nissel; viola Peter Schidlof; cello Martin Lovett). And, fatigue of no, each work was given its due.

Where these works (Haydn's D minor, Opus 76, no. 2; Mozart's E-flat, K. 428; Brahms' C minor, Opus 51, no. 1) are concerned, that means archetonic values were observed and projected, the great slow movements received appropriate concentration, illumination, and interpretive subtleties were expressed clearly and without affectation.

AMADEUS QUARTET . . . Brainin, Nissel, Schidlof and Lovett

In the days before Women's Lib, we might have called the Amadeus "playing 'manly' today, with more informed human, as opposed to sexist, values coloring our thinking, we consider it more accurate to term their playing 'forthright.' Either word is meant to describe a style of performance free from preciously and misplaced detail, a style incorporating immaculate execution, illumination, and interpretive subtleties were expressed clearly and without affectation.

tration, illumination, and interpretive subtleties were expressed clearly and without affectation.

As of this week, and despite minor raggednesses in their Thursday performance, the Amadeus Quartet still excels in that style.

The Laguna Beach

Chamber Music Society's 1972-73 season was announced at this occasion. Its four attractions are pianist Lili Kraus (who begins the season, Nov. 10), the Bartok Quartet, the Melos Ensemble, and the Borodin String Quartet.

LAWMAKER URGES U.S. SUPPORT OF THE ARTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., has suggested that government support of the arts in this country "is pitifully small and weak when measured by the need or by the relative investment in the arts of other countries."

He did so in accepting from the Recording Industry Association of America Inc. its fourth annual cultural award which cited him for "his dedication to the arts and humanities, his continued efforts in behalf of education and his enlightened leadership in providing broader cultural horizons for the nation."

Some 600 persons from Congress, government and the recording industry attended the awards dinner this week.

"Our government spends today less per capita on the arts—just 15 cents—than nearly every other country in the Western world," Brademas said.

"The demands on our artists and institutions of art are escalating at just that time when the financial burdens on them are soaring as well, and I do not believe we can ignore this squeeze any longer."

"I am not one of those who believe that art is an activity we support provided that some money is left over. For money will never be left over. Art and artists must be supported as indispensable in their own right."

Population growth tempo swings away from California

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business Editor

Rapid population growth in the 13 Western United States now appears to be swaying away from California, and the state's principal lenders are following this shift to finance the resultant regional expansion.

Conrad Jamison, vice president and economist, Security Pacific National Bank, explains that California's widely heralded slowdowns in population growth over recent years have not been evident in other western states.

Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, Alaska, Utah and Oregon now share the regional leadership in population percentage increases.

Changes in residential building patterns accompany new surges in population growth, the bank economist explained.

"In 1971, 13 western states accounted for 25 per cent of all new housing units authorized throughout the nation. Even though California retained slightly more than half of the new housing volume, most states experienced larger increases over 1970.

"Collectively, the other 12 western states evidenced a 53 per cent jump in building, compared with California's 1970-71 increase of 32 per cent. New Mexico witnessed a 109 per cent gain; Colorado, 84 per cent; Arizona, 72 per cent; Oregon, 68 per cent; Utah, 61 per cent, and Nevada, 42 per cent," Jamison added.

Additionally, during 1971, Colorado, Arizona, Oregon, Utah, New Mexico, Idaho and Alaska attained all-time building level records.

"Concurrently, as the number of new housing unit authorizations reached all-time highs — 478,000 in 1971, an increase of 41 per cent over 1970 — dollar volume of real estate loans also climbed to new record levels in the West," he continued.

"Even in California, where residential building still remained below peaks reached in the early 1960s, mortgage loans attained their highest levels.

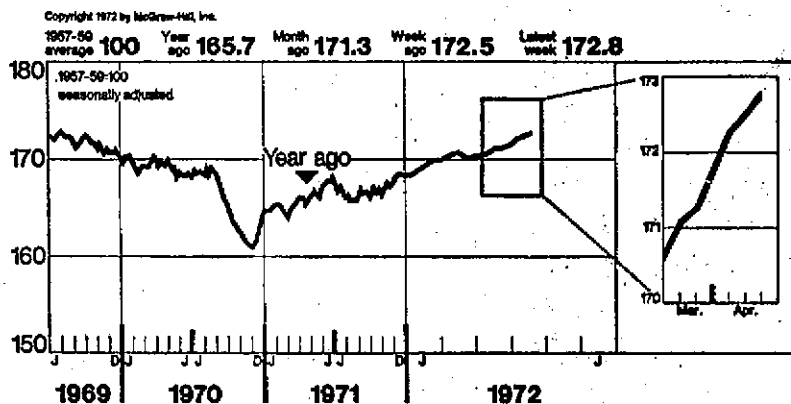

"These tremendous loan volumes were accompanied by declining interest rates and increasing ratios of loaning them to generate electricity to start the flywheels spinning.

The drag resulting from this load is intended to stop the car just as the drag of an automobile's engine will stop it if the driver takes his foot off the accelerator while leaving the auto in gear.

When the subway car is ready to start again, the energy of the still-spinning flywheels will be used to generate part of the electricity needed to get it going.

The index continued in its upward trend, marking the eighth consecutive weekly gain. Steel output resumed its advance after a one-week decline. Increases were also posted in electric power and crude oil refinery runs. Auto production eased because of strikes affecting several car models. Railroad carloadings were unchanged, while intercity truck tonnage declined.

INDUSTRY WEEK

Rising distribution costs hurt

Rising distribution costs continue to be a major problem for manufacturers in their battle to control expenses and improve profits.

Industry Week reported Phase 2 has brought some slowing — but no halt — to the upward trend.

Distribution costs are rising faster than any others except labor, a Pittsburgh company president said. The big culprit is transportation, where labor wage gains translate quickly into higher freight rates, although warehousing and other facets of distribution also are contributing to the increase.

Distribution costs are a bigger problem for some firms than for others because of the variation in the kind and size of products they make, Industry Week pointed out.

Rising contribution costs are said to be putting small manufacturers in a real squeeze.

A maker of pharmaceutical bottles which ships entirely by truck — mostly in small lots — says that its transportation costs have tripled in 10 years and that the rate of increase has been greatest in the last few years.

A WEST COAST FOREST PRODUCTS producer reports its distribution costs generally rose at an 8 to 10 per cent clip last year and are expected to continue upward this year.

The company already has had to absorb some of the higher costs.

With the economy picking up, however, manufacturers are becoming more able again to pass rising costs on to consumers and to discourage or refuse small orders — moves they didn't dare make during the recession, Industry Week said.

To encourage customers to help hold down shipping costs, one company is urging buyers to order in larger quantities. And in an effort to make small shipments less attractive, some chemicals producers are increasing drum prices while holding the line on carload shipments.

An appliance maker is trying to combat traffic costs by getting motor carriers to lower rates on certain items, and shifting some shipping from trucks to piggy-back rail freight.

ONE PLACE WHERE THE BRAKES have been put on prices is the steel industry, the magazine pointed out.

Steel companies are having difficulty maintaining price levels as high as they'd like in the face of foreign competition and cost cutting by customers. The new policy (initiated by Bethlehem Steel Corp.) of guaranteeing steel prices for the rest of this year reflects this underlying problem.

As a result of reductions earlier this year, prices of most finished steel products are below both the levels authorized by the Price Commission and those that producers say would be necessary to recover last August's 15 per cent rise in labor costs.

The freeze, Industry Week pointed out, means there'll be no recovery of wage increases coming up this summer under the steel labor contract.

FINANCIAL INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM

amount to market-value, reflecting an ample supply of mortgage money in relation to record demand," Jamison said.

"Last year, however, California financiers, traditionally importers of mortgage funds, actively sought out-of-state investment opportunities."

Looking to the balance of 1972 and into 1973, the Security Pacific Bank economist doubted whether previous high levels in residential building could continue much longer.

Excesses, he indicated, are evident in several western states, most notably in California "which appears more vulnerable to a decline this year than either the balance of the West or the nation."

He predicted California housing production declines to start some time in 1972, and continue into 1973. This trend will then spread to the balance of the nation.

"In the years ahead, California's growth will probably resurge, though far less buoyant than peak levels reached in the 1960s. We'll no doubt witness rapid growth, however, in other sectors of the West," Jamison concluded.

Kidnapping tip

Ransom paid for release of a kidnapping victim is tax deductible, notes a Commerce Clearing House report.

In the case which prompted the new Internal Revenue Service ruling, a taxpayer's child was kidnapped. Under threat of injury to the child, the kidnappers extorted ransom payments in the amount of $25,000 from the taxpayer. The kidnapping, ransom demand and ransom payments all occurred in the same state.

CCH noted the tax code allows individuals to deduct losses not connected with a trade or business to the extent each loss exceeds $100 "if such losses arise from fire, storm, shipwreck or other casualty, or from theft."

The pertinent tax regulation provides that the term "theft" includes, but is not necessarily limited to, larceny, embezzlement and robbery.

The laws of the state where the kidnapping occurred distinguish the crimes of extortion and theft.

Extortion is defined as the obtaining of property from another, with his consent by a wrongful use of force or fear, the fear being such as may be induced by a threat to do an unlawful injury to the person or property of the individual threatened or of a third person.

The state law regarding theft states that every person who shall feloniously steal, take, carry, lead or drive away the personal property of another is guilty of theft.

Thus, the key question in the case at hand was whether the taxpayer suffered a theft loss as recognized under the tax code even though the taking of the taxpayer's property did not amount to the technical statutory crime of "theft" under local law.

Job to Garrett

A $1.4 million contract for the development of a new braking system for New York's subways has been let to the Garrett Corp., of Torrance.

The Metropolitan Transportation Authority — a state agency — said the company is installing the system in three prototype cars which will be tried out in the subway in the summer of 1973 if they pass federal performance tests.

Each car contains four 600-pound flywheels mounted in vacuum chambers to reduce friction. The cars will be stopped by taking power off the electric motors and us-

N.Y. Life reports

A. F. Walden Jr. general manager of New York Life Insurance Company's Long Beach office, said Californians have purchased $1,063,335,618 of life insurance from his company in 1971.

As of the end of last year, Walden added, the company's total life insurance in force in California reached a new high of $8,261,561,465.

Paid out to policyowners in this state last year was a total of $154,332,386, Walden said.

Walden said the Long Beach office staff numbers 28 "and we expect to increase that to 50."

Obtains work

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Computer Sciences Corp. said it has obtained a $43 million 15-month contract to provide an advanced teleprocessing network for federal agencies from the General Services Administration. The contract was won over seven other major bidders.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Matter of educated guess

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — To businessmen, the future is that part of the road up ahead that disappears into a fog of shapes and mysterious, indistinguishable signals, in which it is equally dangerous to slow down or speed ahead.

Even in an age of pinpoint surveys, planning is often just an educated guess.

In the footwear industry, for example, who could have foreseen the various factors that conspired to produce a situation that industry officials now claim will result in price increases of $1 to $6 a pair.

First, the hide market shifted. Demand rose for leather jackets and coats, each of which consumes enough leather for several pairs of shoes. At the same time there developed a rage for wide, wide leather belts.

These changes developed shortly after Argentina, one of the world's biggest hide exporters, decided to drop from the market so as to build up its breeding stock. Europeans, who usually buy 9 million Argentine hides a year, began placing their orders in the United States.

AT THE same time, rising living standards in Japan led to a greater demand for leather from that country, which normally takes 40 per cent of U.S. hide exports.

All this, say the shoe people, adds up to higher prices — or does it? For hides, to be sure; already the price has risen from 18.5 cents to 31.5 cents a pound in one year. For shoes? The answer might be different.

Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson called industry leaders to a conference in Washington, the purpose being to keep any increases within a range acceptable under Phase 2 guidelines. A $6 increase might be excessive.

But shoemakers, represented by the American Footwear Industry Association, claim they have no choice unless a ban is placed on hide exports. They seek a presidential order to enforce the ban.

THE SITUATION in trucking is similar in some respects but markedly different also.

Truck sales are booming, and it now seems possible that 2.5 million units will be sold this year. Nobody foresaw it. Equally surprised are industry officials and stock market analysts.

Why did they err so badly? Primarily because they were looking at the old market and estimating how much it could grow. But human nature played a trick on them; it reshaped that market.

A large part of the answer is revealed by a breakdown of sales figures that show the biggest increase in demand is for smaller trucks such as vans and pickups.

And why should this be so?

Thinking at the moment is that the leisure market has much to do with it. Families are using pickup trucks to haul camper units, motorbikes, surfboards and other paraphernalia of the active life.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

New game: 'Antitrust'

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For years, people have been playing "Monopoly" and enjoying the vicarious thrill of driving their competition into bankruptcy.

So now, under the fairness doctrine, let us give equal time to a game called "Antitrust."

The rules: the game is played on a board marked off into spaces that represent large companies. Each player selects a plastic octopus, which represents a conglomerate, and places it on the space marked "Go."

The player spins an arrow to determine the number of spaces he moves. Each time he lands on an unoccupied space, he may draw a "merger" card which adds that company to his conglomerate.

With every merger, however, he also must draw an "antitrust" card, which may delay or block the merger or force him to divest one of the merger cards obtained previously.

key "antitrust" cards:

—Your Washington lobbyist writes a memo that falls into the hands of a syndicated columnist. Go back five spaces.

—In destroying the rest of your Washington lobbyist's papers, your necktie gets caught in the pershredding machine. Remain in place.

—Your Washington lobbyist corners the attorney general at a Kentucky Derby party. Advance five spaces.

—The attorney general won't talk about anything but horse racing. Go back two spaces.

—Your Washington

lobbyist has a few too many mint juleps. Lose next turn.

—You arrange three conferences with top officials at the Justice Department. Advance 10 spaces.

—Your own case somehow never enters the conversation. Go back five spaces.

—An officer of your conglomerate is introduced to a Justice Department official at a neighborhood party in the suburbs. Advance three spaces.

—Somehow they never get around to talking about your case either. Remain in place.

—The Justice Department announces it is appealing your case. Return to go.

—You fear you will lose the appeal and seek an out-of-court settlement. Lose next turn.

—The Justice Department fears it will lose the appeal and also seeks an out-of-court settlement. Advance 15 spaces.

—An outside survey arranged by the White House is favorable to your case. Advance 15 spaces.

—One of your companies obtained in a previous merger helps offset the expenses of a political convention. Spin again.

Anderson joins PME Internat'l

Richard Anderson, former director of research for the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, has joined the staff of PME International, Long Beach.

For the past three years, Anderson has been general manager of the National Research Center, Los Angeles-based marketing research PME President, Revan Komaroff said Anderson will be active in both sales and new product development.

Komaroff is a former director of the Long Beach Chamber and has headed Chamber trade tours to Japan, Hong Kong and Australia.

PME represents a line of flat glass for the Hankuk Glass Company in Seoul and Shatterproof Safety Glass Company in Port Elizabeth, South Africa, a manufacturer of auto windshields.

Komaroff said PME will expand its activities by handling additional product lines for both foreign and domestic manufacturers.

Activities of PME International are centered in the Western States from Alaska to Hawaii, but additional coverage is now extended to the Gulf and Eastern Seaboard.

Other companies PME represents include Dong Hwa Sanup Ltd. and Shin-It Enterprises of Seoul; Morishita Jintan Co., Ltd. of Osaka, Japan, and Fortune Industries Ltd., Wellmore, Inc., and Yiehshyn Corp. of Taipei, Taiwan.

Dean Witter division in new headquarters

Dean Witter & Co., which has served the Los Angeles investment community for 47 years, has moved its headquarters for the Pacific Southern Division to new, expanded offices on five floors at 800 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

Ben H. Eaton, executive vice president and manager of the Pacific Southern Division, described the move as part of Dean Witter's long-range program to expand and improve its investment facilities.

"It is one of the most advanced and complete investment banking and brokerage offices in the West," Eaton said.

The new regional quarters are unique in that they are "landscaped" in a flexible, vertically oriented layout that eliminates walls, permanent fixtures and easily adapts to changing contours to meet operational needs.

The new division headquarters is staffed with 255 employees and 16 officers. The brokerage office is served by 53 account executives.

Dean Witter & Co. serves investors through 76 offices in the United States. The brokerage and investment banking firm is a member of 15 stock and commodity exchanges including the New York and Pacific Coast stock ex-

Old cars not what they used to be — especially the prices

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Would you like to buy a 1914 Ford Model T for $8,000 or a 1932 Duesenberg roadster worth, maybe, $80,000? Or what would you pay for the 1940 Cadillac used by Marlon Brando in "The Godfather?"

Antique car buffs with rich tastes and big bankrolls, and collectors with an eye to investment, will be seeking the buys of a lifetime at one of the largest auctions of its kind ever held in America.

More than 200 unusual vehicles, valued at $1.5 million — the oldest an 1860 horse-drawn mahogany and oak hearse — go on the block Saturday on the tree-lined campus of suburban Cabrini College.

"IT'S AN infatuation," says Kirk F. White, running his second auction. Last year he sold 83 vehicles for $483,270.

"Once you buy one you're sort of hooked," he adds.

In the pile of well-oiled machinery, some beautifully restored and others beaten and battered, are 10 Rolls-Royces, 11

Mercedes, 21 pre-World War II Fords of T and A vintage, 9 Packards, 9 Cadillacs, 7 Porsches, 8 Chryslers, 7 Crevettes, a dozen MGs, a half-dozen Bentleys and Jaguars, and a couple of Hispano-Suizas and Daimlers.

Plus: A Renault tank, a double-decker London bus, a motorcycle with stainless steel fenders, a Caddy built for an Arab sheik with the roof raised five inches to accommodate the turban and a horn that plays "Bridge on the River Kwai," and a 1947 Crosley of which the catalogue says:

"Rumors have persisted over the years that it was originally designed late one night by the boys in the back room at the Disney studios over a bottle of bourbon. It defies description. Nothing is really known about it except that it runs."

Star of the show is the Diesenberg owned by Herb Wetson of New York. But there will be stuff for the middle-income folk, looking for something different in a first or second car.

"We've worked very hard over the past months to attract a significant base of moderately priced classics," says White, referring to an abused 1949 Chrysler that may go for less than $300, an MG expected to sell for around $1,000 and a 1921 Model T in the $2,000 range.

"What started out as a rich man's hobby has expanded into something that now attracts lots of young people. Old cars don't devalue the way new cars do. They increase no matter how badly they are handled. You can drive them for five years and then sell without losing a nickel."

William Crochiere, a collector from Devon, Pa., who came early to inspect the merchandise, agrees that inflation has infected the business, and that buyers regard the classics as works of art instead of modes of transportation.

"Cars that are selling for $5,000 and more you could buy for 30 bucks 20 years ago," Crochiere says.

Faulty wiring cited in car air bag safety test failure

PHOENIX (AP) — A spokesman for Dynamic Science said Friday that faulty wiring was the reason air bags failed to inflate last week when an experimental safety car slammed into a concrete wall during a test here.

"It was strictly a wiring problem and there was nothing fundamentally wrong with the air bags," said Vice President Ralph Rockow. "The wires were crossed during fabrication of the vehicle. It was very unfortunate, but something which can be corrected very easily."

When the Fairchild-Hiller car slammed into the concrete wall at 50 m.p.h., two life-like dummies were thrown into a thoroughly cracked, but unshattered windshield. The air bags were designed to inflate instantly on impact and keep the dummies from striking the windshield.

"The car came out of the wreck beautifully," said Rockow. "The hood would still open and it even rolled. It's unfortunate that the air bags failed, but these things happen during the experimental stages."

"I'll assure you that in an actual production car this never would have happened because manufacturers could build into the system connectors which would make it impossible to hook up the wires improperly," he added.

The Fairchild-Hiller car, constructed with a $4-million federal grant, was one of two wrecked recently at Dynamic's desert testing site.

Rockow said the test results would be forwarded to the Department of Transportation for analysis within two months.

Mystery 10th planet. Scientists find hint of 'planet X'

LIVERMORE (AP) — The existence of a 10th planet in the earth's solar system was suggested Friday by scientists at the University of California's Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

The planet, the outermost in the solar system, never has been seen. The prediction it exists is based on new and sophisticated mathematical calculations at the laboratory.

The proposed body, dubbed "Planet X" by scientists, would be three times as large as Saturn and twice as far as Neptune from the sun.

Earth, the third nearest to the sun of the nine known planets, is 80 times smaller than Saturn and nearly three billion miles from Neptune.

The calculations which led to Planet X evolved from studies of Halley's Comet, whose orbit contains mysterious deviations and whose appearance to earth can never be predicted with accuracy.

The calculations were made by a team of three scientists at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory. Joseph L. Brady, a supervisor in numerical techniques, wrote up the team's finding in next Monday's edition of the Journal of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific.

Brady, an acknowledged authority on Halley's Comet, said the prediction of new planets based on mathematical calculations was not new. Neptune's location was predicted in 1846 in a similar way.

To make his predictions, Brady used information from previous observations of Halley's Comet, which has been reported since before the birth of Christ. With the laboratory's enormous computer system he worked out the planet's probable location.

"The proposed planet is located in the densely populated Milky Way where even a tiny area encompasses thousands of stars," Brady said, "many of which are brighter than we expect this planet to be."

"If it exists, it will be extremely difficult to find," he added.

Brady said his method of calculating the location and size of the planet was based on an arbitrary mathematical term which would account for deviations in the last four appearances of Halley's Comet. He then translated that mathematical term into the proposed planet's mass and location.

Subsequent calculations

determined that existence of the proposed planet would explain variations in the orbits of two other known comets and would not contradict what is known of the orbits of the other planets.

The proposed planet would take about 512 years to orbit the sun and probably would orbit in an opposite direction to the other planets, Brady said.

Astronomers made an in-depth planet search between 1930 and 1936, but calculations show their search was just outside the area where the body would be located, Brady said.

Subsequent calculations

AF patient survives total 'wash-out'; blood replaced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force Friday claimed the first successful "wash-out" of a patient's bloodstream. Surgeons totally replaced the diseased blood of a young sergeant after placing him in bloodless suspended animation for nearly 10 minutes.

The operation, performed March 31 at Wilford Hall Air Force Medical Center, San Antonio, Tex., was described by the Air Force as "an ultimate, last-ditch effort" to save the patient's life.

THE PATIENT, Staff Sgt. Tors Olson, 26, of Laurens, N.Y., had suffered complete liver failure and had been in "a deep, hepatitis-induced coma for several days and was not responding to treatment," a spokesman said.

In a statement describing the operation, the Air Force said the surgeons used a heart-lung machine to pump a clear salt solution into the patient's arteries as they drained him of virtually all his blood and blood cells. When this was completed fresh donor blood was pumped back into his system.

To protect the young man's brain and vital organs from deteriorating from lack of oxygen-carrying blood, his body and the salt solution were cooled to 85 degrees Fahrenheit. This slowed his body processes and resulted in the patient being in suspended animation — totally bloodless — for eight to ten minutes, the Air Force said.

Col. Gerald Klebanoff of New York, who headed the surgical team, said this new technique may have significant application to people suffering from similar liver failure.

By completely flushing the diseased blood from the system and replacing it with healthy blood, Klebanoff said, the liver is given a chance to regenerate itself and assist the patient in recovering.

THE DOCTOR stressed this technique, called "total body perfusion," does not offer a cure for disease such as leukemia because it does not attack the source of the disease.

He described the technique as radical, but said it is not a difficult surgical procedure.

The Air Force said, "total body perfusions" were first successfully performed on dogs at the University of Mississippi in 1963 and that this was believed to be the world's first successful application of this technique on a human being.

Constitution mute on hair

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting in full session, ruled 10-5 Friday that the Constitution does not guarantee high school students the right to wear long hair.

The ruling came on a case involving Chesley Karr, 16, who in 1970 was denied enrollment to Coronado High School in El Paso, Tex., because his hair length did not conform to student grooming regulations.

Karr took his case to Federal District Court in El Paso and won, but the decision was appealed to the late U.S. Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black.

"We think it is plain that individual liberties may be ranked in a spectrum of importance," said Chief Judge John R. Brown in the majority opinion.

"At one end of the spectrum," wrote Brown, "are the great liberties such as speech, religion and association specifically guaranteed by the Bill of Rights. At the other end of the spectrum are the lesser liberties that may be invaded by the state subject only to the same minimum test of rationality that applies to all state action."

Lakers-Knicks on Ch. 7

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

The second game in the Lakers-Knicks basketball series for the championship of the National Basketball Association will be seen locally on Ch. 7 at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

The third and fourth games from New York will be carried at 5:40 p.m. Wednesday and Friday.

And if more than four games are played in the four out of seven series, ABC-TV said it will carry them. The local ABC station, Ch. 7 said any further games in the series carried by ABC will be shown locally.

The lifting of the blackout, according to ABC, comes because the contract provision with the NBA allowing each club the option of five blackouts for local games has been fulfilled.

The Sunday game, the station said, definitely will be aired from the Forum as will the two games from New York at 5:40 p.m. next Wednesday and Friday.

If the four out of seven series goes more than four games, Ch. 7 plans to air fifth, sixth and seventh games on this schedule: 7:10 p.m., May 7; 5:40 p.m., May 10 and 7:10 p.m., May 12.

CH. 4 starts a new golf series at 5:30 p.m., Sunday, "Golf with the Pros," a half-hour weekly series hosted by sportscaster Ross Porter.

The premiere show features action by Robert Stack in a two-hole sudden death with resident pro Ed Merriams of the Bel Air Country Club.

TV WATCHERS of "Medix," seen on Ch. 2 at 3 p.m. Sundays, will be asked to participate in a medical research project this Sunday.

The project involves a study of a disease called narcolepsy and viewers who know of anyone suffering the ailment are asked to send postcards to the station.

Narcolepsy is described as a rare sleeping disease which causes people to suddenly fall asleep while they are engaged in normal daily activity.

Marlo Machado hosts the "Medix" program which features Dr. William C. Dement and the research and experiments he is conducting at Stanford University.

'Dick Cavett Show' gets one last chance

HOLLYWOOD — ABC said Friday it has extended "The Dick Cavett Show" for only three months because of stiff competition from the CBS late-night movies and will cancel the show this summer if the ratings do not improve.

"Given our long background and investment in Dick Cavett we felt that that relationship should not be terminated before every last recourse was examined and exhausted," said Martin Starger, ABC vice president for programming.

Starger told the ABC Television Network affiliates meeting at the Century Plaza Hotel unless the show improves in ratings and in the number of affiliate stations carrying it the show will be canceled on July 28, with the last air date Sept. 29.

Starger said a major program development effort is now under way. "That will provide us with a number of alternative late-night program possibilities for this fall."

Starger said he has held lengthy meetings with Cavett and his producers on ways to improve the show. He warned that if Cavett "revitalization" did not take place "then, beginning Tuesday, Oct. 3, an important, new, top-level and top-budgeted late-night series will be launched on ABC."

HARBOR CHEVROLET

When a young lady of 23, (A Former Model, in fact), was finally admitted into the Doctor's office, she requested a complete physical examination. Appearing in the altogether as is necessary in this type of examination, she casually remarked to the Good Doctor that she'd just left another specialist's office 2 hours earlier who had told her she was the most beautifully endowed female specimen he had seen in 15 years of practice. Putting down his stethoscope and with eyebrows arched, he asked in a nettled voice, "THEN WHAT COULD YOU POSSIBLY WANT WITH ME?" With deviltry making her blue eyes appear bigger and bluer, she replied, "I'M LOOKING FOR ANOTHER OPINION!" Folks, if you don't like the opinion of the last person who appraised your old automobile — I COLLECT 'EM, so naturally I'll bid it strong!!! DIAL M FOR ME MEDER THAT IS — AT GA 6-3341 3770 CHERRY
